INFLATION SPLIT APPEARS

The New York Times

Washington — Deep and seemingly unbridgeable differences on how to curb inflation and meet other problems of the economy emerged Friday at an economic "summit" called by President Ford.

The differences emerged between Democrats and Republicans and among the numerous private interest groups represented.

Of the nearly 800 non-government delegates plus numerous members of Congress and the Ford administration officials involved in the meeting, almost 100, including members of Congress, had a chance to express their views. They differed vastly, both in their perception of what is wrong in the U.S. and what ought to be done.

In particular, the President received anything but unanimous support for his view, and that of all his main economic advisers, that the root of the inflation problem is excessive government spending and borrowing. Many of the suggestions — including widespread backing for a much larger program of federal grants to state and local governments to hire the unemployed — would involve more spending.

Many of the participants, with organized labor in the lead, stressed the problem of the nation's recession, with the prospect of higher unemployment rather than inflation.

Ford heard some tough words, and the toughest were directed at Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns. One delegate, Murray W. Miller, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters union, won applause when he suggested that Ford "clean house" of all his advisers, including Burns.

But there was also applause — clearly from a different part of the audience — when William Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said unequivocally that "the root cause of inflation is deficit spending by the government and the resulting increase in the money supply."

Ford Just Listens

The President mainly listened. He asked only one or two questions aimed at clarifying a point.

The attacks on the Federal Reserve Board and Burns, personally, were so sharp — though by no means unanimous — that Ford gave him a chance to reply, noting that Burns could not be present at the final session of the conference Saturday. Although Ford did not say so, Burns will be at Camp David at a high-level meeting of the finance ministers and central bank governors of the five leading industrial nations, discussing oil and other matters.

In his remarks, Burns repeated his view that inflation was the cause of most of the nation's problems — from sluggish consumer spending to a depressed stock market and housing industry — and he emphasized that budget restraint must help the Federal Reserve in its "lonely struggle against inflation."

But he said the Federal Reserve had "been able recently to take actions that have reduced somewhat the pressures on the banking system," with a result of declining short-term interest rates. While the Federal Reserve will make sure that "the supply of money and credit keep moving upward," Burns said, it will also "persevere in pursuing monetary policies that are necessary to curb our rampant inflation." He gave no encouragement for a big decline in interest rates until inflation is controlled.

The deep divisions came to the surface at the outset of the meeting.

Following brief opening remarks by Ford, the first speakers were House Speaker Carl Albert, and Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield. The two Democratic leaders left no doubt that their ideas for curbing the nation's economic problems were very different from those of Ford's advisers and presumably those of the President himself.

Dominated By Executive
Albert stressed that the executive branch, not Congress, had dominated the selection of delegates to the conference and its preceding "mini-summits" and said, "it is no secret that there is a divergence of views, generally and specifically, between the Republican administration and the Democratic majority in Congress with regard to economic policy."

He went on to list a number of proposals of the House Democratic Caucus, most of which the administration opposes.

Mansfield said he was "not too optimistic" about the results of the inflation conference.

Expressing a view heard later — though not unanimous — Mansfield said, "Even massive cuts in federal spending will do little to slow inflation while maybe setting off a depression."

Controls Not Backed

He proposed a nine-point program of his own, starting with a return to wage and price controls. While his statement prompted some applause, there was very little support for controls as the conference proceeded.

General agreement seemed to emerge on a few points:

—There is a need for much greater conservation of energy, particularly oil, in order to reduce dependence on foreign oil.

Local Scores

Northeast 13, LHS 0
East 26, Ralston 0
Pius X 18, Minden 13

—A program of public service employment, through federal grants to state and local governments, is a promising way to alleviate unemployment, though there were differences over how high unemployment should be allowed to get before the program is "triggered."

—Anything that can be done to improve the nation's productivity — usually defined as the output of each worker per man hour — would be helpful in checking inflation.

—There is a need to reduce "waste" in government spending, though it was seldom defined.

The overriding atmosphere, however, was disagreement rather than agreement.

INCUMBENT EXON . . . speculatively eyes opponents Marvel, center, and Chambers, right.

Candidates Debate Exon's Record

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Grand Island — Gov. J. James Exon and Republican challenger Richard Marvel argued Friday about the record of the Exon administration, while independent candidate Ernest Chambers promised "a bold departure" if he is elected.

The three gubernatorial contenders met in a spirited debate before editorial executives of Associated Press member newspapers in Nebraska. They are scheduled to meet once again, on Oct. 30, when the statewide educational television network will tape a 90-minute discussion with the trio.

Both Chambers and Marvel took the offensive in Friday's showdown, with Exon defending his four-year record and promising "another four years of the same basic platform and principles" if he is re-elected in November.

'Not Perfect' Record

Although the record of the Exon administration is "not perfect," the governor said, he did keep his 1970 campaign promises to "hold the line on state tax rates" and impose "a tight rein on the (state) budget."

During the past four years, he said, Nebraska has enjoyed "record-shattering industrial development," and "aggressive" improvements in environmental control and penal reform.

"Don't try to tell us you're conservative or that you've held the line," Marvel rejoined. "Don't take credit for something you really didn't do."

Marvel said Exon supported hikes in the state income tax rate in 1971, opposed reductions by the Legislature and the Board of Equalization in 1973, and supported a proposed income tax rate boost this year.

'Inept Operation'

The governor's record, Marvel said, includes "inept operation" of the Department of Roads, and responsibility for a Department of Public Institutions which "treats people like pawns."

Exon, he said, should explain the need for what Marvel described as "the tremendous balance" in the state general fund.

Responding to Marvel, Exon said there is no "surplus" in the general fund.

"We probably do not have enough money to run this state through the end of the fiscal year because of the appropriations of the Legislature," the governor said.

As chairman of the Legislature's Appropriations Committee, Marvel was not in any of the past four years able to reduce the conservative budget recommended by the governor, Exon said.

Would 'Face Problems'

Chambers said he would be a governor "willing to face problems."

His budget would be constructed "to solve the needs" of the people, he said.

"I am free from the domination of all political parties," Chambers said. "No special interests" influence him, other than his wife and children," he said.

Chambers said he would work for abolition of the state sales tax and reinstitution of a tax on intangible property, which is largely stocks and bonds.

'People Hide Money'

"Intangibles are a legalized form of gambling where rich people hide their money and don't have to pay tax on it," he declared.

"I also want corporations to pay more (income) taxes," he said.

Marvel said one of the Highway Department's district engineers, Dave Coolidge of McCook, has written the legislative fiscal office a "threatening" letter critical of staff investigations of highway employee efficiency.

But those investigations will continue, he said. Exon said Marvel's highway program would "saddle the people with deficit financing" in the form of bonded debt.

'Can Fly Over' Roads

"Jim thinks the roads are great since, as governor, he can fly over them," Chambers suggested.

Chambers won the meeting's biggest laugh with a later rejoinder.

Exon, noting that he held the lead-off position in the debate due to the luck of a drawing, said he was content to head the batting order.

"Lou Brock leads off for the Cardinals because he runs faster," the governor pointed out.

"And he steals more," Chambers interrupted.

Masked Gunmen Rob Reno Bank

Reno, Nev. (AP) — Three armed men wearing halloween masks and coveralls "handcuffed and hogtied" nine bank employees and fled with more than $1 million in cash from the main branch of First National Bank of Nevada on Friday, police reported.

Police officials said the $1.04 million robbery was the biggest in Reno history.

Police Detective James Hass said the men, armed with revolvers, entered the bank by a side door about 30 minutes after the 6 p.m. closing time.

They took employees at gunpoint to the bank's vault, Hass said. The nine employees were "handcuffed and hogtied" after being forced to lie on the vault's floor, the detective said.

Cash from the vault was put into canvas bags, and the men escaped out a back door, Hass said.

A van believed used in the getaway was found abandoned three blocks away about an hour after the robbery, police said.

Police Chief James Parker called it a "professional job, obviously planned very meticulously."

As Parker described it, the men hid in a downstairs office and surprised bank employees MaryKay Bennett and Bob Franz as they came downstairs to lock up for the evening.

One of the men grabbed the woman and said, "If you say a word, I'll kill you," she told investigators.

Parker said only vague descriptions of the suspects were available. All were males of medium build, he said.

The van had been reported stolen Sept. 19 in Sacramento, Calif.

American Lady Diplomat Among Leftists' Hostages

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Nearly two dozen armed leftists planted bombs in the occupied Venezuelan consulate, threatening to blow it up at noon Saturday unless $1 million and 38 jailed comrades are traded for a kidnapped American woman diplomat and at least seven other hostages.

The band — led by a convicted airplane hijacker recently freed from jail — demanded the ransom money from the United States government, but diplomatic sources said Friday night Venezuela was willing to pay it if the Dominican government would free the 38 political prisoners.

Sources at the presidential palace in Santo Domingo said, however, that it would be almost impossible to reach a solution "before the 24-hour deadline" that comes Saturday at noon. The Dominican government maintained official silence.

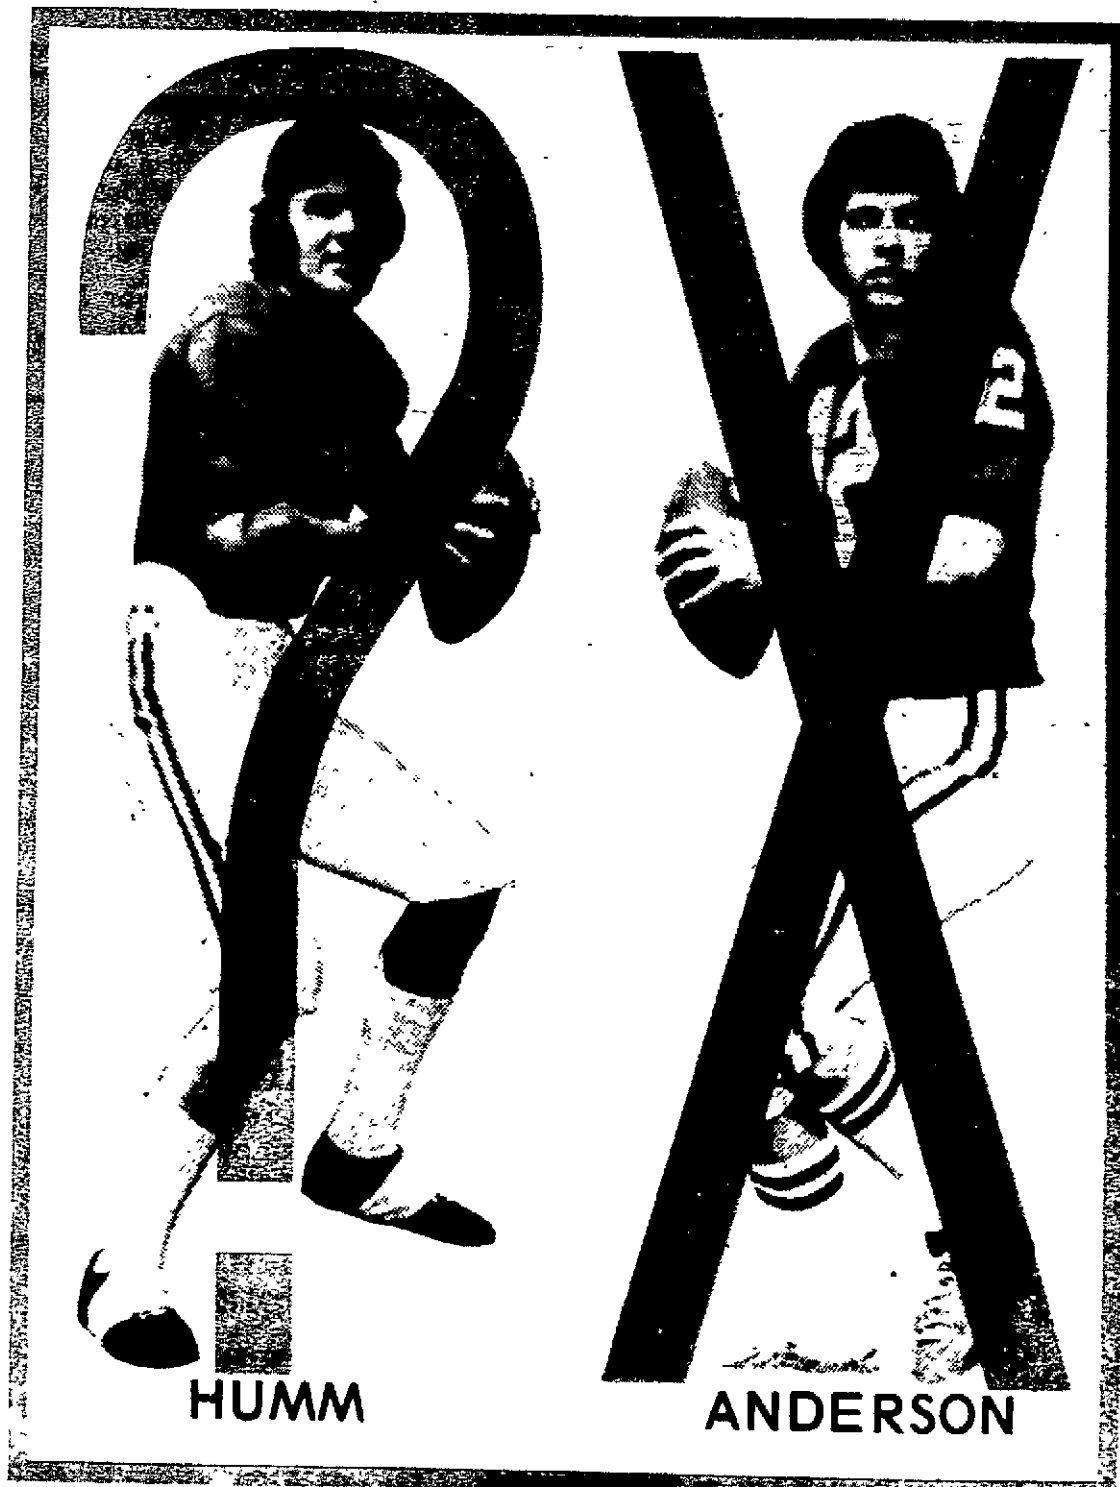

The American hostage is Barbara Hutchison, director of the U.S. Information Service in the Dominican Republic, which shares the Caribbean island of Hispaniola with Haiti. She was abducted by five armed men at 11:30 a.m. Friday outside her office on a quiet tree-lined street and then was driven to the Venezuelan consulate.

The USIS had been evacuated moments before when an unidentified man shouted: "There is a bomb in the bathroom!" The Venezuelan Foreign Ministry in Caracas said 23 guerrillas were involved in the consulate takeover. One of the hostages, Venezuelan Consul Jesus Gregorio de Corral, told the Associated Press by telephone that the gunmen had planted the bombs and would set them off, "killing us all," unless their demands were met.

The diplomatic sources in Santo Domingo said the offer to pay the ransom came from President Carlos Andres Perez in a communication to the Dominican government.

The hostages appeared to be well treated, but Corral said the consulate did not have enough food for a long siege.

"Well, we're fine. All eight of us are fine . . . We're getting hungry," Miss Hutchison, 47, said in a telephone interview with NBC Radio in New York. CBS Radio in New York said she referred to "ten of us here" in another telephone conversation.

Game Will Lack Passing Duel

helm when the game starts.

Nebraska vs. Northwestern, a football game that shaped up as a battle between two of the nation's top passers just a week ago, will go on as scheduled at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium.

The passing duel, however, won't be a part of the show because of injuries to both quarterback Dave Humm of the Cornhuskers and Mitch Anderson of the Wildcats.

There's a possibility Humm, who is recovering from a hip pointer received in the first quarter at Wisconsin last week, will get into the game, but it is likely Earl Everett will be at the Anderson, however, will listen to the game on the radio back in Evanston, Ill., where he was left to recuperate from a shoulder separation suffered in the third quarter of a 40-3 Northwestern loss to Notre Dame.

The game, Nebraska's 66th consecutive sellout, also will be lacking the running talents of Nebraska's John O'Leary, the Huskers' leading rusher after two games, who has a fractured jaw, and Northwestern's Greg Boykin, the Wildcat No. 2 rusher a year ago, who hasn't played yet this season because of a broken fibula.

Jeff Moran replaces O'Leary at I-back for the Huskers while Jim Pooler will run at tailback for Boykin.

Nebraska will be trying to bounce back from a surprising 21-20 loss to Wisconsin and Coach Tom Osborne believes the Huskers can do it.

"We are a good team and our players will come back and be a real good team," he said. "They're all hard when you lose, but we can still win the Big Eight."

Likewise, Northwestern coach John Pont is faced with regrouping his Wildcats after a couple of harrowing experiences at Michigan State, 41-7, and Notre Dame.

First Lady To Have Breast Cancer Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford, wife of the President, entered a suburban naval hospital Friday and will undergo surgery Saturday to determine whether she is suffering from breast cancer.

Shortly after attending a White House reception, President Ford drove to the hospital in early evening to be with his wife. Aides said he would not spend the night there.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen told newsmen Friday evening: "The purpose of the surgery is to determine through a biopsy whether the nodule (on her right breast) is benign or malignant. Should it prove to be malignant, surgery would be performed to remove the right breast." He would not disclose the time of the operation.

Nessen made clear that if the surgical examination showed the breast to be cancerous, the entire breast would be removed immediately as part of the same operation.

Mrs. Ford had no suspicion the nodule existed until she was examined by members of the gynecological staff at the hospital during a regular checkup on Thursday.

Mrs. Ford entered the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital at 4:55 p.m. CDT. Nessen described her as in "good spirits" and she had appeared with her husband less than six hours earlier at ground-breaking for a memorial grove honoring the late President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Nessen said "a small nodule was detected in her right breast" in the course of a regular medical checkup she underwent at the Bethesda hospital Thursday morning.

"After further medical consultation," said Nessen, "it was recommended that the nodule be surgically removed and a biopsy be performed to determine whether it was benign or malignant."

Less than an hour after Mrs. Ford entered the hospital, her husband appeared at a White House reception for some 1,000 guests participating in the summit conference on inflation that continues Saturday. Ford had sat through virtually the entire day-long conference Friday.

The President seemed perfectly composed at the party and, after expressing gratitude to the conference participants, declared, "we look forward to tomorrow."

Performing the surgery on the First Lady will be Capt. William Fouty, the hospital's chief of surgery. Assisting him will be Dr. J. Richard Thistlethwaite, a civilian consultant to the hospital and professor of surgery at the George Washington University Medical school here.

Ford was informed Thursday of the nodule discovered during his wife's routine examination and, Nessen said, the President and Mrs. Ford decided later in the day that she would enter the hospital Friday and have surgery Saturday.

Summit Elicits Variety Of Ideas

Washington (UPI) — Following were some of the variety of anti-inflation ideas put forward Friday at President Ford's economic summit meeting:

— "Blatant industry waste and labor featherbedding can no longer be tolerated. Every worker must produce, not just merely show up at work." — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

— "We should support an excess profits tax on the oil companies who cooperated... with the Arab sheiks to manufacture the energy crisis and create much of the current inflation." — AFL-CIO President George Meany.

— "A policy of monitoring wages and prices, but relying on voluntary cooperation, can... play a modest but useful role in curbing inflationary excesses." — Arthur Burns, Federal Reserve Board chairman.

— Release highway and airport funds appropriated by Congress but "illegally impounded" by the administration to ease unemployment in the construction industry. — Robert A. Georgine, president of the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL-CIO.

— Ford should use the same hardline jawboning technique on domestic oil companies that he used last week on foreign oil producers and the President should "ask Exxon, Mobil and Texaco to roll back their prices and their profits." — Carol Foreman, Consumer Federation of America.

— Revive the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, a New Deal government agency, to aid such economically important but ailing companies as Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and Pan American World Airways. "Congress is not the proper forum for specific decisions involving government bailouts." — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield.

— Help poor Americans through improved unemployment benefits, indexing the minimum wage, tax relief for low- and middle-income persons offset by tax increases for corporations and the rich. — Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers president.

— "Establish a requirement that within an appropriate time period, cars will achieve 25 miles on a gallon of gas." — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

— Set a goal of 50,000 new homes built with federal subsidies to be achieved by April 1, 1975. — Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass.

Inflation Summiteers Well-Fed

Washington (UPI) — Some 800 participants in President Ford's inflation summit paid $10 each Friday for a continental breakfast and an elaborate luncheon of coq au vin — chicken in wine.

A spokesman in the catering office of the Washington Hilton Hotel, where the summit was held, said the $10 fee included a 6% tax and 18% for tips. The main expense was the luncheon, he added.

The luncheon menu included chilled vegetable juice, coq au vin on a bed of rice

Pilaf, glazed Belgian carrots and bombe glace San Tasio for dessert.

The spokesman described the dessert as a mold of strawberry, chocolate, pistachio and vanilla ice cream decorated with whipped cream and sprinkles of chocolate. The mold was sliced into individual servings and topped with fresh strawberries.

The chicken was described as a "medium range meat" which can be served for about $1.50 to $2 less per person than beef.

The breakfast included two rolls and coffee.

WAC Deserter, Exile Discharged

CAMP ATTERBURY, Ind. (AP) — The National Amnesty Center gave discharges Friday to its first Women's Army Corps deserter and its first soldier who had fled to Canada.

The attractive 24-year-old woman's name and address were withheld at her request but she talked freely to newsmen.

Curly-haired Nelson Slater, 23, said he was willing to be identified because he wanted other American deserters in Canada to know he had been well treated since surrendering at Champlain, N.Y., Sept. 12.

Both now have the opportunity to convert their undesirable discharges into clemency discharges through alternate public service.

The former WAC said when she enlisted in 1971 after a legal separation from her husband, the recruiter told her she could have her two small children with her after she was given a permanent assignment.

"I was assigned to clerical work at Ft. McClellan, Ala.," she said. "I asked to bring my children and was told, 'No.'"

After six months, she simply went home to her children, lived under her own name, and opened a shop she described as "very successful."

She said she liked the Army and "if it hadn't been for my responsibilities I definitely would have stayed in."

Finally she decided to surrender.

"I went to two recruiting offices and tried to turn myself in," she said. "They wouldn't take me. Finally I had to go to the FBI."

She said she didn't know about the amnesty program until a Judge Advocate General officer told her.

"I think a lot of WAC deserters don't know they qualify," she said, "and that's why I decided to talk to newsmen."

The center had kept her under wraps for two days while she was insisting on anonymity.

Slater is the son of a decorated paratrooper of the 101st Airborne who was wounded in the last big push into Germany in World War II.

He, too, was headed for the 101st after he completed basic training at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

"I went into the hospital with the infected ankle and I told myself, 'I'm not going to make it.' There were a couple of men in the hospital from Vietnam, with their legs blown off, and that didn't impress me one bit," Slater said. "I was a little bit scared, too—worried and a little sickish."

His ankle improved and he was given a weekend pass before going into advanced training. He didn't go back.

He said he lived illegally in Canada for three years, meanwhile marrying a French-Canadian girl, until he was arrested for driving without a license. He then learned that because of the marriage he could obtain legal status as a "landed immigrant."

He cleaned up his status and obtained work as a foreman in a Montreal plastics factory.

Slater wasn't drafted. He enlisted in Denver in 1969 while working his way across country as a setup man for dance bands.

"I was more or less patriotic," he said. "You know, make yourself a man and all that."

Slater said his wife wanted him to surrender and work for an amnesty discharge when they heard of the program.

"I guess what influenced me a lot to turn myself in was a letter from my dad," Slater said.

The former paratrooper, now living in Phoenix, Ariz., wrote, "You're still my son. I want to know how you are."

Inflation Adds Latest Casualty

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The traditional Nickel Suppers put on every three months by the Harrisburg area's Salvation Army are getting a new name.

From now on they'll be known as Inflation Suppers.

"We've been doing Nickel Suppers for quite a number of years," said a spokesman for the organization. "But most everything will probably be a dime now."

GOP's Available Cash Twice Democrats'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite Watergate, national committees of the Republican party have $3.2 million in cash available for this year's congressional elections, double the $1.6 million held by Democrats.

Balance sheets for the national committees of both parties, giving the situation as of Aug. 31, showed Republicans also have raised and spent somewhat more than Democrats this year.

These financial reports, plus interviews with party officials, show both parties are striving to broaden their financial base and to raise large numbers of small donations. Both seem to be meeting with some success.

For the year so far, Republican committees have raised about $9.5 million and spent $7.9 million. Close to half the money came in donations of less than $100 each, raised through the GOP's comparatively economical direct-mail program.

Democrats have grossed almost as much, raising $7.1 million and spending $6.5 million. But this includes $2.5 million spent to cover the costs of the Democratic telethon, a relatively expensive mass appeal for small donations.

Both party organizations managed to carry some ready cash over from last year, about $1.6 million for the GOP and $1 million for the Democrats. Combined with this year's net, the Republicans head for election day with $3.2 million, while the Democrats have only half that.

The Democratic party also is still saddled with $2.9 million in debts most of them left over from the financially disastrous 1968 presidential campaign of Hubert H. Humphrey.

Republicans are almost debt-free, owing $61,572 in due bills and miscellaneous obligations. The figures were tabulated by The Associated Press from public finance reports of the various national headquarters committees of both parties, plus their various congressional committees.

The figures do not include totals for any individual candidates, for state-level party committees nor for special interest groups which might tend to favor one party or another. All figures are adjusted to compensate for the effects of transfers of money between the various committees of a party.

Top finance officials of both parties said in interviews that they are pleased with the results,

New Orleans — Sen. Edward Kennedy's decision not to seek the presidency focuses renewed attention on the unusually large number of Southern politicians who have begun to develop national ambitions.

Leasing Moratorium Urged

Santa Monica, Calif. — Sen. John F. Tunney, D-Calif., speaking as a member of the Senate Commerce Committee, Friday urged the federal government to declare a moratorium on leasing offshore oil lands, pending legislation to assure state and local governments of a bigger role in policymaking.

Conservation Major Issue

Washington — Energy conservation

was a major issue at the inflation conference. Americans were called on to save oil and gasoline, even if it meant some personal discomfort, as a means of lessening the country's dependence on imported oil and, consequently, weakening the prices set by the oil-exporting countries. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO said, "I think we should get back to where we were last winter, to where we have some restrictions on pleasure driving." Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., called for a federal requirement that all automobiles should get 25 miles to the gallon "within an appropriate time, which would have to be very far away."

Surgery Not Needed

Long Beach, Calif. — Surgery is not needed now for former President Richard M. Nixon, because the phlebitis in his left leg and the blood clot in his right lung are "responding satisfactorily" to anticoagulant therapy, Nixon's chief physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, said Friday.

Evangelization Theme

Rome — "Evangelization in the Modern World," was the theme of the fourth Synod of Bishops of the Roman Catholic church which was opened here by Pope Paul VI. The synod is an advisory body established after Ecumenical Council Vatican II, the meeting of the church of 1962-65.

Colson Clemency Request Returned

Washington (UPI) — President Ford returned Charles W. Colson's request for clemency to Colson's lawyers with the advice that all such Watergate clemency requests should be submitted directly to the Justice Department, the White House said Friday.

The announcement indicated Ford has decided to steer clear of direct involvement in controversial Watergate clemency appeals, and it also said Colson had asked only for clemency and not a full presidential pardon — a "misunderstanding" that fooled even Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe.

Earlier in the day, when even the Justice Department thought Colson had asked for the sort of full pardon Ford granted Richard M. Nixon. Saxbe and other department officials said Colson does not qualify for pardon unless regulations were waived, presumably by Ford.

Lawrence M. Traylor, the Justice Department's pardon specialist, said current regulations require that a person cannot be eligible for pardon until three years after he is convicted or until he has served his prison sentence in full.

Ford Will Visit Lincoln Oct. 16

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Fulfilling an earlier commitment to Congressman Charles Thone, President Ford will come to Lincoln Oct. 16, for a Republican rally at Municipal Airport.

The President is scheduled to be in Lincoln for an hour, arriving at 3:30 p.m.

Although Ford's trip is in response to a request from Thone, all Republican nominees for office in November's election will participate in the event.

Cancelled Visit

When he was vice president, Ford had made a commitment to speak at a fund-raising breakfast for Thone in Lincoln this fall. That appearance was cancelled after he assumed the presidency.

As recently as last week, Thone's office had been informed by the White House that Nebraska could not be included on a foray into the Midwest Oct. 16.

But negotiations this week altered that position.

Thone announced the President's trip in a luncheon talk to the Cornhusker Republican Women's Club in Lincoln.

"Lincoln and all of Nebraska are honored by this visit of our President, a native Nebraskan," the First District congressman said.

Respects Integrity

"In working for 3½ years in the House of Representatives with President Ford, I gained enormous respect for his integrity, honesty and complete fairness to all."

"I am pleased that the people of Lincoln and the surrounding area are going to have this opportunity to see our President in person."

Although Ford's trip apparently will no longer serve a fund-raising purpose (although that is not yet definite), it is designed to boost Republican hopes for November.

GOP Faces Challenge

The GOP is in an uphill battle for the governorship, and faces

President Ford

unusually stiff challenges in all three congressional contests.

The program for the President's brief appearance is not yet settled. He will be on a day-long jaunt which reportedly will include stops in South Dakota, Indiana and Missouri.

Ford's last trip to the state featured a Republican fund-raising speech in Omaha last February, when he was still vice president.

The last presidential trip to Lincoln was Richard Nixon's visit to the University of Nebraska campus in 1971. The year before, he campaigned for Nebraska's GOP nominees at Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha.

Ted Kennedy Came To Lincoln—Almost

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

U.S. Sen. Ted Kennedy came to town Friday ... well, almost!

Although the senator himself wasn't aware he was expected, the news media, the Lincoln Police Department and several hotels were.

Rumors concerning Kennedy's supposed visit got started when an unidentified member of the news media received a telephone call.

The caller told the reporter Sen. Kennedy was going to attend a Statewide Emergency Medical Services Conference held Friday at the Ramada Inn.

Not even questioning why such a powerful national political figure would attend such an event, but spurred on by Friday's announcement of President Ford's visit to Lincoln on Oct. 16, the diligent reporter did exactly what reporters are supposed to do: he pursued the matter.

Telephone calls were made to the Lincoln Police Department, radio stations and a number of hotels in an effort to determine when Kennedy would arrive and where he would stay.

No one knew ... which isn't really too surprising.

But the phone calling spread the rumor and as the appointed hour for the press conference neared, a television cameraman, a radio newsmen, and reporters from two newspapers descended on the Ramada Inn in anticipation of the senator's appearance.

And arrive he did, only it was state Sen. Tom Kennedy of Newman Grove.

So, Sen. Kennedy did come to town; and, well, Tom does sound a little like Ted.

Court Asked To Consider Action Against G.B. Cook

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Supreme Court Friday was asked to consider disciplinary action against former Securities & Exchange Commission Chairman G. Bradford Cook for lying to congressional committees and a grand jury.

A court-appointed committee of lawyers told the court an investigation has found sufficient cause to warrant a hearing on the 37-year-old Lincoln native's conduct.

The court could reprimand, disbar or take no action against Cook, an attorney.

A State Bar Association spokesman said the action by the Bar's advisory committee makes no judgment of Cook's guilt or innocence.

Committee: Cook Lied

The committee said Cook lied on six different occasions about an attempt to cover up a secret $200,000 campaign contribution from financier Robert Vesco to former President Richard Nixon.

As general counsel for the SEC, Cook was responsible for a lawsuit filed against financier Robert Vesco for looting $224 million from mutual funds.

A paragraph in the lawsuit concerning the illegal $200,000 cash gift to the Committee to Re-elect the President was dropped as the result of a conference between Cook and Maurice Stans, Nixon's chief fund-raiser.

However, Cook testified

G. Bradford Cook

before a grand jury, a Senate subcommittee and a House subcommittee that he had not discussed the lawsuit against Vesco with Stans or former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell until after it was filed.

In March, 1974, Cook changed that testimony during the trial of Stans and Mitchell. He told the court he had lied about the matter and in fact had contacted Stans and others before the suit was filed.

Violations Alleged

That testimony, the bar committee said, violated four sections of the Code of Conduct for attorneys. The sections deal with conduct involving dishonesty, fraud or deceit.

Cook, son of George B. Cook, chairman of Bankers Life of Nebraska and former chairman of the Nebraska Committee to Re-Elect the President, was admitted to the Nebraska Bar Association in 1962 after graduating from the University of Nebraska Law School.

He served as general counsel at the SEC until January, 1973, when Nixon named Cook SEC chairman.

Cook could not be reached for comment Friday after calls to his residences in Lincoln and Washington, D.C. He is reportedly "somewhere on the West Coast."

20 Days For Reply

George Turner, clerk of the Supreme Court, said Cook has 20 days to reply to the charges. If Cook does not reply or does not deny the charges, the bar will file a motion for a judgment.

If Cook denies the charges, a referee will be named to make recommendations to the court.

The document filed Friday also contained a number of letters from business, educational, legal and political leaders supporting Cook's character.

Among those were letters from Rep. Charles Thone; NU Pres. D. B. Varner; Lancaster District Judge Samuel Van Pelt; Burnham Yates, chairman of Lincoln's First National Trust Co.; Henry Grether, dean of the NU law college; Paul Schorr III, vice president of Commonwealth Electric; E. J. Faulkner, Lincoln insurance executive; and Robert Palmer, minister at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, who had accused the bar of dragging its heels in the Cook case, said he was pleased.

Crete Mills Used Oil Tank Is Still Haunting Mayor

Crete (UPI) — A situation that suddenly became an election issue last year continued to haunt Crete Mayor Norman Behrens this week.

It has to do with a one-million gallon used oil tank that the operators of Crete Mills Industries plan to erect on the south side of Crete.

Many of the residents, especially those who live in that section of the community, are bitterly opposed to location of the tank in the same area in which the city is expanding.

Mayor Behrens said he has located 12 other possible sites for the storage tank. In fact, he placed a newspaper ad which cost him $53 in which he asked the Crete Mills' executives to change their minds about location of the tank.

Included in the newspaper ad was a ballot and Crete residents were asked to vote for or against the firm's choice of location for the tank. Behrens said public sentiment against the present location was almost unanimous.

The firm has been granted a permit for the three-story, high-storage tank and work is underway.

Behrens said Thursday he hopes to get an ordinance passed which would prohibit the same type of storage tank to be located at any other location in Crete, but says the mayor, "it looks like this one is going up."

House Subcommittee Planning Hearings On Meat Price Spreads, Thone Reports

By The Associated Press

Hearings on meat price spreads will be held by a U.S. House agriculture subcommittee Oct. 3 and Oct. 8, Rep. Charles Thone, R-Nebr., announced Friday.

"We intend to seek answers to the question of why retail beef prices have remained near all-time high levels while prices received by farmers for cattle have dropped substantially from a year ago," Thone said in a prepared statement released in Lincoln.

The hearings will be held by the family farms and rural development subcommittee, headed by Rep. Joseph P. Viorito, D-Pa.

Thone said: "I first asked for such hearings last December. Hearings on this subject were held in April. I urged that these hearings be resumed because conditions for cattle feeders have worsened."

Thone added: "Many who raise livestock are about to quit with some facing bankruptcy. Unless the livestock farmers' position improves, now, production will go way down and the consumer will pay much higher meat prices in the future."

Behind Efficiency Report

It's a horrible thing, trying to prove that you're more than 41% efficient, because you don't have any better idea than anybody else about how your alleged percentage of inefficiency was figured. Only your accuser knows.

The State Department of Roads this week questioned the accuracy of an assessment by the Legislature's research staff that road maintenance crews wasted more than half their time but, analysts being analysts, the staff stood firm on the 59% inefficiency charge. The figure sounds bad, but maybe it wouldn't seem so bad when compared to, say, the percentage of time used efficiently on the floor of the Legislature.

We don't think that assigning an arbitrary inefficiency percentage to the performance of the roads department, or any department for that matter, gives an accurate picture of the overall performance of that operation. It's a charge that just won't stick because it sounds too pat. It is probably enough to say that due to a number of factors, the performance is such that it needs to be improved.

At a Thursday meeting called to discuss the efficiency report, some of those factors were mentioned. Legislative staff members suggested that the current pay scale results in a high turn-over of road crew personnel each year. The state crews, they said, serve as a training ground for county and city road crews where the pay is higher. Better salaries might attract more qualified workers and keep them with the state longer, they said.

A union representative, however, said any efficiency problem which may exist is not the men's fault. The Legislature, he said, has not appropriated enough money to replace old machinery which often breaks down.

We get the idea, then, that low pay, high-turnover and some undependable equipment might be as much to blame for whatever inefficiency exists as is management.

We think it is true that you get what you pay for, and in that regard the Legislature shares in the responsibility and is one of the sources to look to for improvement.

Stall Tactics Suspected

Democrats in Congress are being charged with stalling the confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president in order to keep the personable Rocky off the campaign trail. Confirmed, Rockefeller could devote his energies to helping GOP candidates in tough November election battles.

Sen. Roman Hruska is reported to have taken note of the stalling tactics and said something to the effect that it's understandable, and if the vice president-designate were a Democrat, if the situation were reversed, the Republicans would probably be up to the same tricks. He is probably right.

But we don't think politics as usual is what the country needs right now.

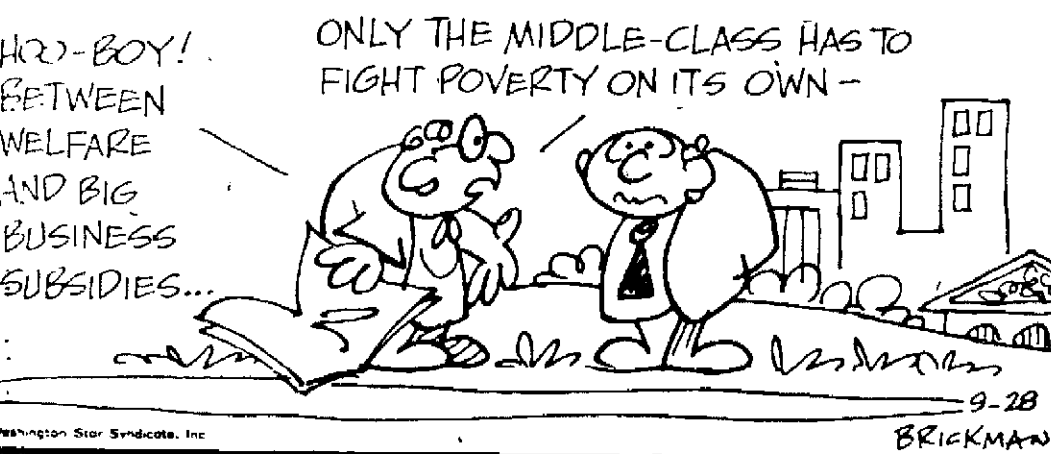

The public hearings in the Senate produced some asinine and irrelevant commentary supposedly addressed to Rockefeller's fitness to serve. Attica, abortion and affluence are really philosophical or ideological issues, however, and we don't think the President's choice should be disqualified on ideological grounds. Congress, moreover, should no more deny a rich man the office than it should a poor man (although Nixon and Agnew have given all of us reasons to distrust men of humble backgrounds) and time spent talking about the fact of his wealth is time wasted.

What is important is to investigate what he has done with his wealth and we think that can be done thoroughly in a relatively short period of time. Rockefeller's appointment shouldn't be pushed through too hastily, but neither should it be unnecessarily sidetracked.

Favors No Mercy

President Ford should be impeached for obstructing justice. Isn't that a reason for impeachment? He misused the office of the presidency to obstruct justice. Instead of healing a nation's wounds, he has only added to them and now it will take forever to straighten out the pardons for everyone else.

Nixon should have been impeached before he resigned. The only reason he resigned was to get his pension. We should have gone on with the Watergate trials to find out who all is guilty. Now we will never know.

First Nixon nominated Ford, and then Ford pardoned him. This is wrong. The people should be allowed to vote for president and vice president now, before 1976, and not let Ford in by Nixon's choice. The people should be entitled to a choice.

Then Ford picked someone for vice president who has been trying and trying to get in by hook or crook. I believe Mansfield would be the best choice for leadership of the nation.

And then that talk of giving Nixon all that money for the taxpayers for transition from office, when Nixon himself avoided paying taxes! Mr. Nixon shouldn't be shown any mercy. Many of the rest of us are also sick and suffering. And Haig should also be ousted, as he was a Nixon aide and not to be trusted.

Let's see some action from Congress while there is still a chance. The pardon should not be considered. We should go on with the trials and put the nation straight.

No Fault Insurance

Lincoln, Neb. It is my judgment that the "guest statute" is very sound. Very simply, if you are kind enough to give someone a ride, he cannot recover from you for personal injuries sustained in the ride unless you act grossly negligent, are intoxicated or charge him for his trip.

If a third party (another vehicle) is involved and negligent, then the passenger in your car can make recovery from the operator of the opposing car with slight difficulty so in this respect, the passenger in your car is protected, but he cannot exploit your kindness.

The law should be fair, reasonable and just. It also must be pragmatic. It should be possible — where the "guest statute" was waived — for your passenger to have a million dollars worth of damages and your coverage limitation of $100,000 would mean that he could collect from you for everything above that. It would mean your premium cost would be substantially increased.

It would mean a further estrangement of people, with fewer and fewer people giving each other rides. If there were an accident, you and your passenger could very readily become antagonists. Most passengers carry health and accident insurance that would protect them and some would be under workmen's compensation and others would have medical pay from their car or your car, or both, that would be applicable.

In addition, suppose you and your passenger suffered similar injury. He could end up collecting more than he should, even from your own resources, as well as your insurance company, and you would be left holding the bag for your expenses

JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — Partly as a result of former President Nixon's illness, the Senate of the United States is now acting quickly to give the government control over his tape recordings and other official documents, which could be destroyed under the Ford-Nixon agreement in the event of Nixon's death.

This is a delicate and even painful subject, but it is important to the historical record and therefore the memory of the nation. Also, these tapes and papers are vital to the men on trial in the Watergate and related cases, and to the Congress which is studying legislation to prevent the abuses that led to the Watergate scandals.

Without reference to the Congress, the Ford administration on Sept. 8, 1974, agreed that all materials relating to Nixon's tenure as president should be regarded as his personal property, with certain qualifications accepted by Nixon.

Under the terms of the agreement, the former President stated that he would donate a substantial portion of these materials to the federal government at some point in the future. Other provisions of the Ford-Nixon agreement were as follows:

1. Nixon would control access to the materials; any requests for access to them, whether by court subpoena or other legal process, must be referred to him.
2. Nixon has the right to withdraw any materials (except tape recordings) from deposit, after three years from the date of the agreement, for any purpose. As the report of the Senate Subcommittee of the Committee on Government Operations states, "Presumably this right to withdraw also encompasses the right to destroy any papers or materials he wishes."

3. In a separate provision, Nixon agreed to donate tape recordings to the federal government on September 1, 1979. This agreement states, however, that this future gift is subject to the condition that all tapes in the government's custody "shall be destroyed at the time of Mr. Nixon's death or on Sept. 1, 1984, whichever event shall first occur."

4. Finally, the agreement provides that, in any event, Nixon can direct the administrator to destroy any tapes Nixon chooses after the gift becomes effective in 1979.

In order to change these terms, the government operations subcommittee has now voted 9-0 for a bill that would (1) "Protect and preserve the tape recordings of conversations and other materials prepared . . . between Jan. 20, 1969 and Aug. 9, 1974 . . . (2) Make them available for use by the Watergate special prosecution force and for access by the public under regulations promulgated by the administrator of General Services, who would retain custody and control of such tapes and other materials; and (3) Make them available to Richard M. Nixon, or his designees, for copying or any other purpose consistent with the administrator's regulations."

It should be clear what this bill — (S-4016) does not attempt to do. It does not pass judgment on the question of "ownership" of the tapes and documents. Nor does it try to define new regulations for handling members of the Judiciary Committee who are aching to have at Rockefeller. Representatives Waldie, Conyers, Holtzman, Drinan and others are saying, they mean to go to town with nothing like the gentility of the Senate committee.

Veep Okay May Be Yuletide Gift

With a Republican of such great wealth on the stand, it is an opportunity not to be missed. Since each of the 38 committee members has the right to interrogate, it is not hard to see why the hearing should be so long-drawn-out.

Rockefeller was a sober, responsive witness, occasionally underscoring his answers with dry irony. The magnitude of his personal fortune was considerably more than the figure floated by rumor before the hearings and considerably less than the estimates given by political rivals.

Whether his $218 million in direct holdings and trust funds exert influence, if not control, on important segments of the economy or whether this is a myth, as he insisted, is irrelevant.

When put together the combined fortune of the three brothers, Nelson, David and Lorraine, may very well exert a considerable influence.

But his fortune is a fact of life as is the conspicuous bent he has exhibited throughout his career in public service, from his wartime job as coordinator for Latin America under Franklin Roosevelt to his fourth election as governor of New York. With his energy and drive, he hardly qualifies for membership in the category once known as the idle rich.

DAVID

Men of greater wealth have not infrequently been confirmed to high office. One recent example was David Packard who was shown to have private holdings largely in his own company of Hewlett-Packard of $300 million. He served as deputy secretary of defense.

An annual income of $4.7 million certainly made it easier for Rockefeller to serve in public office. And it also removed any temptation of the kind of bribe-taking that brought Spiro Agnew down.

The opposition on the Judiciary Committee will press hard on the Attica prison riot with its toll in dead and wounded. Governor Rockefeller failed to understand the seriousness of the threat and he failed to confront the rebellious prisoners. This is one of the few grave errors on his record.

So much has happened it is hard to realize that Gerald Ford was up for confirmation as vice president just a year ago. Of the 35 votes in the House in opposition, eight came from those same Judiciary Committee members who are after Rockefeller and who can be expected to vote against his confirmation.

Having said he would not hit the campaign trail until after he was confirmed, Rockefeller will escape this duty.

The delay means the loss of the service of an experienced public man. Rockefeller can give the President valuable help and counsel in the incredibly complex and difficult problems he faces.

and his, as well. He could greedily collect more than he needed and was entitled to and in the process financially break you. You can see that this is a set-up where the passenger could collect from four or five different sources and maybe getting two or three times what would be fair and reasonable. A much better alternative would be "no fault" where he would collect just once a fair amount and in other states this has resulted in a savings to the premium-paying policy-holder of 50% to 60%.

★ ★ ★ GOP And Clear Conscience

Lincoln, Neb. Last Friday this column carried a letter written by a person who signed himself "Small-Town Citizen." He was disturbed about hearing so much about Watergate and had hoped that the resignation of Mr. Nixon would have ended the whole thing.

Sorry to disappoint you, Citizen, but the Democrats in Congress, who have spent so much of our money to keep a third-rate burglary alive for two years as a campaign platform (the only one most of them are running on) are not going to give it up lightly. Nixon has been billed as the most corrupt man in politics and all Republicans have been branded the same. But nobody drowned at Watergate.

The letters from Dewey Nemetz and Lea Harbaugh are prime examples of what I am referring to. My first reaction to them was: "But I didn't do it!" But then the absurdity of the accusation hit me. They jest, surely.

If they would reread their letters, I think they would see the ludicrousness of their accusations. Neither I nor any other Republican here in Nebraska was in the Watergate building at that time. The moral lacks morality.

The thinking exhibited in those letters is the same that prompted one person at the State Fair to tell me: "I don't want any of that Watergate stuff!" Funny, but I don't recall any of our county or state candidates involved. Nor were they invited to any committee meetings set up to plan the break-in.

So, Citizen, when you go to the polls, vote your conscience. I'm going to do so, and I'm going to vote Republican with a clear conscience.

DOUG MUELLER

★ ★ ★ Sawmill For Brady

Lincoln, Neb. The establishment of a sawmill at Brady by the American Box Company can be a boon to land use planning in Nebraska. This move helps establish the importance of our bottomland hardwoods. The high value of walnut is well known, our oak is valuable, and now our cottonwood is in demand. Because of distance to market, our trees have been considered "second-class" citizens occupying land which might be more valuable in some other crop or for development purposes.

If the box company is sincere in its statement that they wish to stay in Nebraska, they will offer prices for the trees which they purchase which will be high enough to encourage landowners to replant harvested acres and even establish new acreages of trees.

This could result in more wood-using industries and therefore more trees growing in Nebraska. Flood plain zoning will become more palatable because there will be a potential income from these lands. And while the trees are growing, we will benefit in many ways from their presence — as a habitat for certain species of wildlife and protection for crops and livestock. They will reduce erosion hazards and benefit our urban population traveling the highways by beautifying the countryside, a most important contribution.

★ ★ ★ Modern-Day Gladiators

Lincoln, Neb. Wisconsin had to destroy two Nebraska players, nearly killing Tom Pate, in order to get their first score.

Such roughness exposes football for the blood-lusting, gladiatorial show it is. There is nothing good about the competitive spirit or the competition football promotes, nor is any competition good.

The stench of Wisconsin's action must hang forever in their nostrils and disturb the peace of their hallowed halls and those of other institutions as well.

★ ★ ★ Glass Houses And Stones

Oseola, Neb. Ever since the beginning of the Watergate affair and up to the pardon of Nixon by President Ford, it has seemed to me as if everyone wants to be the judge and in some ways even the hangman for both Ford and Nixon. These words may seem a little overbearing to some people.

I'm not trying to tell everyone what to do or think. But I do believe if everyone adds up all the good as well as the bad in one's own life and also takes an honest look at himself, I'm sure he may come to the same conclusions I have, and may want to improve himself.

What I am trying to say in all of this is — let's get our own lives on the correct route before we tell others the route to take.

★ ★ ★ Headlines Misleading

Lincoln, Neb. Whoever writes Star headlines should read the editorial on Saturday, Sept. 21, "Greenspan Criticism Undeserved." The headline Friday morning blared out at me: "Brokers Suffer More Than Poor." I read the entire article, carefully paying special attention to the direct quotes of Mr. Greenspan.

After reading the article, I sat back and thought about how misleading the headline was. The Star made him out to be (to use The Star's own words, "an elitist with a 'let-them-eat-cake' attitude.") Then the very next day, there was the editorial criticizing the news media for misrepresenting Greenspan's remarks — the very act The Star was guilty of itself.

I agree completely with the editorial — I just wonder if The Star realizes how much it supplies to its own paper.

★ ★ ★ Longs For Old Days

Lincoln, Neb. Once in the dear old days there ran in the columns of The Lincoln Star something called "society" or "women's news." We readers didn't appreciate it until it disappeared. Now, the school of journalism teach "in-depth" reporting which results in a half-page or so of fluff obtained from reading a few articles in the library about abortion, the single women, etc., enlarging it into blah-blah-blah . . . or perhaps printing a half-page about some junk-type collector, which could be of interest only to said collector or his immediate family.

The Lincoln Star has become a competitor with Cosmopolitan or Redbook in its subjects. Some of us still enjoy reading about local social events, organizations, travel, personals — names we know.

We want a Lincoln NEWS-paper, with NEWS. UNHAPPY SUBSCRIBER

★ ★ ★ Ford is New Target

Lincoln, Neb. It was the hard line taken by President Nixon on amnesty that brought down on him a year and a half of the most subtle and vicious kind of rabble-rousing on the part of the news media that led to his forced abdication as president. And this intelligentsia has now started in on President Ford for the same reason.

Nixon is but one of the many casualties caused by the treasonable acts of this intelligentsia. To let the acts of these runaways affect our foreign and domestic policies to the extent of deposing a president of proven loyalty and ability is an insult to all loyal Americans and the memory of their dead.

Conscience being but a reflection of one's environment, training, and education, this widespread desertion would indicate that our country's ethics, judicial system and schools are badly in need of correction.

★ ★ ★ No Profiteering Anywhere?

Ravenna, Neb. After listening to President Ford and Kissinger threatening the Arab nations if they do not lower oil prices, I cannot help wondering how long the American citizen will listen to these incredibly inept politicians try to teach the U.S. citizen to blame inflation and our economic problems on others.

President Ford has asked Congress for $550,000 to donate to ex-President Nixon, while reducing aid to the poor. Senator Curtis recently hired one of Congressman Martin's executive assistants at $39,000 a year while preaching economy.

As a livestock producer, I am losing money this year. The farmers' share of the consumer dollar dropped five per cent the third quarter of 1974, yet the retail price of food increased six per cent — and our leaders say no one is profiteering!

How and why should we respect this kind of leadership? So instead of endorsing this antiquated system, why don't we do something to improve it?

I have written this letter. What have others done?

High Court Chief Justice Jailed For Drunk Driving

Nebraska Supreme Court Chief Justice Paul White was arrested and jailed early Friday morning for driving while intoxicated.

White was not arraigned on the charge Friday, but City Prosecutor Norm Langemach said the charge would be filed Monday. Earlier he had planned to file the charge Wednesday.

In an unusual move, police let White out of jail at about 8:35 a.m. Friday on his own recognizance. Langemach said he did not know of White's arrest until police called to tell him White was leaving.

It is standard police policy that persons, (including attorneys) are released from the jail only to attorneys or on their own recognizance through a pre-trial release program using law students.

Capt. Miller's Order

Capt. John Miller said he let White out of jail because the "court probably wouldn't have gone on if he wasn't there."

The justices spent the morning reviewing written opinions they will release on recent cases they have heard.

Miller said that he has ordered other persons released on their own recognizance before, but said he cannot recall how many times that has been the case.

Langemach said it is unusual that he waits several days to file charges after an arrest. He said, however, that he seldom refuses a request for extra time before arraignment.

Police stopped White at 48th and South at about 1:10 a.m. Police said they had observed the car, southbound on 40th, straddling the center line for several car lengths near 48th and Sumner.

White was not leaving Bryan Memorial Hospital as indicated in other published reports. Police said White had been at the Hillcrest Country Club earlier in the evening.

.15% Alcohol Content

Police said a preliminary breath test at the scene was unsuccessful. A breath test given at 2:20 a.m. showed White's blood alcohol content at .15%, police said. The legal limit is .10%.

White was held in a juvenile cell with three other persons arrested for driving while intoxicated, police said.

Five State Supreme Court justices said they had no comment on the matter. White told The Associated Press the case would not affect his status with the Supreme Court.

White will be up for retention on the November ballot, giving voters a chance to vote on whether he should be retained in that position.

U.S. Diplomat Scolds Canada

©The New York Times

Ottawa — U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter has publicly upbraided Canada for trade practices that appear to discriminate against the United States, and he warned that Washington was feeling pressure to retaliate.

Porter, a career diplomat, criticized Canadian import quotas on American cattle and beef, pricing practices that have undercut American egg producers, and the heavy export tax on Canadian oil, among other practices that strike businessmen in the United States as being unfriendly.

Through taxation, Ottawa has manipulated the price of Canadian petroleum which is exported only to the U.S., so that it costs Americans as much as Arab oil while protecting Canadian consumers against the full impact of price rises on Middle East oil.

No Pipeline

Canadians produce as much oil as they consume, but the lack of a pipeline from the wells in western Canada to the eastern industrial zone has made it preferable to sell western oil to the U.S. and to buy oil elsewhere for eastern Canada.

The export tax of $5.20 a barrel on the oil sent to the United States makes up for what Canada has had to pay suppliers, since the Arab price increases, above the fixed Canadian wellhead price of $6.50 a barrel.

FEA To End Heat Rules For Winter

WASHINGTON (AP) — You can put your long-johns back in the closet. The government is expected to rule that you don't have to turn down your thermostat six degrees this winter.

The proposal by the Federal Energy Administration, endorsed by home heating oil distributors, resulted from what one government spokesman said was the sheer unfairness of the old rule. It could be enforced only against those who heated their homes with oil.

Persons whose furnaces burned natural gas, or whose homes were heated electrically, did not have to make the shivering sacrifice.

Under last winter's program, oil-heated homes were given only enough supplies to keep the temperature at six degrees less than normal. Natural gas and electric heat were not rationed.

The FEA plans to eliminate the lowered thermostats and change the oil allocation formula came amid predictions of adequate home heating stocks for the coming winter.

However, the suppliers strongly opposed proposals by the FEA to make other changes in the allocation program for home heating oil.

"We cannot overemphasize the serious disruption and chaos that could occur in the northeastern heating oil market if the FEA goes forward" with its plans to alter the formula under which middle distillate fuels are allocated, William F. Kenny Jr. of the Independent Fuel Terminal Operators Association said Friday at FEA hearings on the proposals.

Kenny and other representatives of home heating oil suppliers also objected to a proposed separate allocation program designed to provide electric utilities with additional supplies of distillate fuel in the event of a coal strike or curtailments in natural gas deliveries.

"We understand your motive," Porter told the Canadians, "(but) your tax looks discriminatory in nature to us because it applies a double pricing to a commodity which is exported only to the United States."

Last year the U.S. paid about $1.7 billion to Canada for oil and petroleum products. An American official source estimated that the price "will probably double" for this year. The trade involves more than one million barrels a day.

$12.50 In Chicago

After the addition of transportation costs, Canadian oil in Chicago costs $12.50 a barrel, one of the highest prices in the world.

"The present cost of Canadian oil is generating resistance in the market and buyers have been seeking and finding lower prices elsewhere," Porter said in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

"Canada is taking measures to support the high price level, such as cutting back production, but it appears that a more effective means of staying in the market might be to let the oil find its natural price level and rely on normal sources to meet your tax needs," he said.

'Not In U.S. Interest'

"It is not in our interest to see Canadian oil priced out of the market, but that is what is happening," he added.

Porter warned that the price freeze and various proposals for new taxes on the industry were driving oil exploration programs out of Canada. "Such an exodus . . . cannot easily be reversed," he said.

Canada abruptly raised the price of natural gas for American consumers by two-thirds last week, going from an average of 60 cents for a thousand cubic feet to $1. This will cost Americans an additional $330 million a year, and the Canadians have promised further rises to bring the cost of natural gas into line with the prices of other fuels.

Coal Cited

Porter pointedly called attention to the Canadian dependence on the importation of 17.5 million tons of high-grade coking coal from the United States every year to feed heavy industries and electric power generation.

Coal miners have to live, too, said Porter, implying that inflated prices for Canadian oil and gas may force an upward revision in the price of coal.

Aviator Allowance Differs

The State Aeronautics Commission Friday voted to investigate a discrepancy in the amount of money aviators and filling stations are allowed for administration costs.

Rudy Peralaz, aeronautics director, said the Federal Energy Office allows aviators, such as Duncan and Lincoln Aviation, only a penny per gallon to cover the cost of federal paperwork while filling stations are allowed three cents per gallon.

If administrative costs exceed the estimated allowance, he said the money comes out of the profit margin.

"We feel this is discriminatory against aviators," he said.

Priority Shift To Help Bartley Get Sewage Treatment Funds

The State Environmental Control Council Friday moved to assure the small community of Bartley (pop. 283) funds this fiscal year for construction of sewage treatment facilities.

The council voted to move Bartley from near the bottom of the priority list for funding to 68th. Dan Drain, State Department of Environmental Control director, said 87 communities will definitely receive funds this year, and he said it is "very likely" that Bartley will also.

The council stressed it was not setting a precedent for wholesale changes in the priority list for funding.

The action was taken to help Bartley out of a unique financial bind.

The community's voters approved issuance of revenue bonds to construct a sewage collection system. However, the community can not pay off the bonds until the treatment lagoons are constructed and the sewage system in use. A change in federal funding priorities denied Bartley needed federal matching funds.

The council also approved new rules to provide for more public participation in contested actions before the department.

Paul Harm, Norfolk city manager, was elected the council's new chairman, succeeding Mrs. Betty Abbott of Omaha. Richard Veach of Omaha was named vice chairman.

Lincoln Foundation Board Elects New Members, Backs Proposal

In rapid-fire succession Friday, the Lincoln Foundation board and advisory committee elected new board members, endorsed a proposal to be presented to its planning committee Monday and approved recommended by-law changes which will be acted upon by the full membership at the annual meeting to be held Friday, Oct. 25.

New at-large members of the board are Samuel H. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Earl McGregor of Gibbon, Robert D. McGordon, James Stuart Jr., William F.D. Wright and Charles E. Wright.

Thomasbrook Sale Agreement Filed Friday

An agreement for the sale of the financially troubled Thomasbrook Apartments at 56th and Van Dorn was filed Friday with Lancaster County Register of Deeds Kenneth Ferguson.

According to the document the property was sold to a partnership known as Thomasbrook Associates, comprised of the following members:

Calvin C. Krueger, Merlin Anderson, Marilyn Schwartz, Jerome Lang and James McArthur of Lincoln, and Ronald Carlson of Buchanan, N.D.

Purchase price for the 216-unit complex, was $3,007,500, according to the agreement.

The planning committee proposal, drawn up by Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller, committee chairman, calls for a survey of community needs and establishment of three task forces to study the foundation's activities. The community needs survey would be approached from two directions: a series of small group luncheons at which persons representing civic, cultural, health, education and welfare interests would air their opinions of needs in those particular areas; and a mail survey asking working agencies how the foundation or other funding agencies might help meet specific community needs.

The task forces would assess the foundation's grants, its successes and mistakes and determine how the community could best be served.

Capt. John M. Waters, who was instrumental in bringing about the merger of Jacksonville-Duval County, Fla., will speak at the annual meeting.

State Land Use Rulings Adequate, Says Maresh

Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan said Friday he was convinced that Nebraska laws are adequate to provide for proper land use.

He said, "Municipalities, county boards, and natural resource districts have the power now, if they only use it, to prevent a lot of problems that other states are experiencing. It is the lack of action which is causing the stir in Congress to pass national land use legislation.

"These boards will have to bite the bullet and exercise their power given to them or Congress and state government will step in and take over their rightful jurisdiction."

He said, "The loss of local control is the last thing I would want to have happen."

2 More Suits Seek Centrum Derailment

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Two more promised suits were filed Friday in an attempt to block the City of Lincoln from proceeding with plans for the Centrum in downtown Lincoln.

Separate suits were filed in Lancaster District Court by Ira D. Beynon, as guardian for John Donald McDonald, who owns two lots in the block bordered by 11th and 12th between O and N and by the lessees of the property, Weiss and Newman Shoe Co.

Like three other suits filed during the last 10 days, the plaintiffs contend that the action of the City Council declaring the Centrum Block substandard and blighted was without foundation in fact, arbitrary and capricious.

The City Council has passed the resolution in preparation for proceeding with a redevelopment plan for the block which would house a parking facility and space for retail and commercial stores.

Beynon and the shoe firm allege in their petitions that the two store buildings with which they are concerned are leased and substantially sound, complying with city codes and regulations dealing with occupational standards.

The plaintiffs contend that the property is not conducive to ill health, transmission of disease, infant mortality, juvenile delinquency and crime, nor are they detrimental or a menace to the public health, safety, morals or welfare.

According to the petitions, the plaintiffs are asking the court to review the City Council's action and the Community Development Law, and hold it, the resolution and ordinance passed by the City Council invalid and unconstitutional.

Other suits have been filed by Pat Ash, Leon A. and Lucille F. Nefsky, and Wilfred, Herb, Julius and Richard Wittmann.

Sen. Keyes Plans To Try To Halt Platte River Dam

State Sen. Orval Keyes wrote a letter to the Flott Construction Co. Friday, saying he would attempt to prevent them from damming up part of the Platte River in connection with their Bucaneer Bay land development.

The development is planned for the Cass County side of the Platte River. Keyes said, "I am very concerned about this part of the project and am asking the governor of Nebraska, the water resource districts, the department of environmental control, the commissioners of Sarpy County and Cass County and the Corp of Engineers to ask you to not dam the Platte."

Keyes said the developers planned to dam 30% of the river bed to connect the project with an island.

Keyes said the project was basically good, but he thought the dam could cause flooding in Sarpy County. He said, "When it comes to making money at the expense of human lives, it is my firm conviction that lives come first."

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

2nd Psalm and Acts 4:25

"IF THOU TURN AWAY THY FOOT FROM THE SABBATH, FROM DOING THY PLEASURE ON MY HOLY DAY: AND CALL THE SABBATH A DELIGHT, THE HOLY OF THE LORD, HONORABLE: AND SHALL FINOR HIM, NOT DOING THINE OWN WAYS, NOR FINDING THINE OWN PLEASURE, NOR SPEAKING THINE OWN WORDS: THEN SHALT THOU DELIGHT THYSELF IN THE LORD; AND I WILL CAUSE THEE TO RIDE UPON THE HIGH PLACES OF THE EARTH, AND FEED THEE WITH THE HERITAGE OF JACOB THY FATHER, FOR THE MOUTH OF THE LORD HATH SPOKEN IT"

If we keep the Sabbath as outlined above in Isaiah 58:13, 14, we will be changed so as to delight ourselves in the way of The Lord, and be fed with "the heritage of Jacob" — which means Jesus Christ and Everlasting Life. As it is, is it not true that most of the food we get on the Sabbath for our minds and hearts is from sports, from tobacco, cigarette, beer, liquor concerns, etc? We might swim through a lot of sewerage and find a little good here and there, but the end of all this is to get your money and we need to beware lest we throw our souls to the devil in the bargain! We need to open again our churches that have been closed on Sunday and Wednesday nights to "SEEK THE LORD WHILE HE MAY BE FOUND!" Probably most folks will dismiss this suggestion with no thought but, my, how you might have time and cause to think of it: "WHILE THE AGES OF ETERNITY ROLL!"

A few days ago our papers stated that crime and lawlessness increased 148 per cent during the 1960's. "THE CURSE CAUSELESS SHALL NOT COME!" — Proverbs 26:2.

About a year ago the writer spent the night in a city about a hundred miles from home. It was a Wednesday and after supper he went out to lookup a church where there was prayer-meeting. Found one and as he got close by saw some folks going in carrying covered dishes. As he did not have one, he hesitated about going in, decided not to and returned to his motel room. Some of my thoughts that influenced me in justifying myself for turning back were as follows: I had already eaten a big supper, and I needed to beware of gluttony; in view of the great crime, rioting, and lawlessness we really needed prayer-meeting with fasting and prayer — Christ said some kinds of diseases, evils and wickedness could only be overcome by prayer and fasting; and then there came to mind the words of Scripture in Philippians 3:18, 19: (FOR MANY WALK, OF WHOM I HAVE TOLD YOU OFTEN, AND NOW TELL YOU EVEN WEeping, THAT THEY ARE THE ENEMIES OF THE CROSS OF CHRIST: WHOSE END IS DESTRUCTION. "WHOSE GOD IS THEIR BELLY", AND WHOSE GLORY, IS IN THEIR SHAME, WHO MIND EARTHLY THINGS!" "Whose glory is in their shame" — is that not especially applicable to those who go about in near nudeness!

However, let us consider this matter from another viewpoint. We Christians striving to be faithful and pay our vows unto God should beware from dodging and running away from evil, hypocrisy and apostasy, but "fight the good fight of faith, endure hardness, be found in our place of duty enduring to the end." At least three different times in the gospels Christ said "He that endureth to the end shall be saved." In Psalm 45:6, 7, and again in Hebrews 1:8, 9, we are told that God's Throne is forever, a sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of His Kingdom, and Christ's love of righteousness and hatred of iniquity caused Him to be announced above all. Go to Church and prayer-meeting, talk to God personally yourself about the terrible condition of crime and evil, CALL ON HIM TO SAVE! "I said not to the House of Jacob, seek Me in vain!" "SEARCH THE SCRIPTURES!" In Deuteronomy 17: 18-20 God says to His people, whom later He says He will make Kings and Priests unto Himself, "Get yourself a Bible, keep it with you, READ IN IT ALL THE DAYS OF YOUR LIFE, THAT YOU MAY LEARN TO FEAR THE LORD YOUR GOD, TO KEEP PRIDE OUT OF YOUR HEART CAUSING YOU TO THINK YOU ARE BETTER THAN YOUR BRETHREN, TO KEEP YOU FROM TURNING TO THE RIGHT HAND OR LEFT FROM HIS commandments and statutes, to the end you and your children might live a long and blessed life in the land God gives you."

Advice On Raising Toddlers

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER

(c) Chicago Daily News

The mother heard her toddler scream once and she heard no more. Rushing into the next room she saw his body turning blue and limp. When she frantically bent over to give mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, he began to breathe again, at first in short gasps, then in deeper, longer and more regular respirations.

A call to the pediatrician brought reassurance that breath holding spells were common between the ages of 1 and 2. Although they have a horrifying effect on everyone around, they do occur after an injury, just as the child starts to cry," explained Dr. T. Berry Brazelton, associate professor of pediatrics at the Harvard Medical School.

"Instead of letting out the cry and wailing with deep breaths, he holds on to the first deep inspiration. His immature breathing controls don't respond properly. He holds his breath until he loses consciousness and then his breathing begins again."

The brief period of no oxygen does not damage the brain and there are no adverse results. The episode has no relation to epilepsy, unless the child already has a lowered threshold for seizure activity.

The biggest danger of these spells is their effect on adults who become fearful of provoking the child. They hover protectively over him and withhold punishment.

"I have seen parents at the mercy of a child as a result of these spells," said Dr. Brazelton. "He begins to be more and more demanding in manipulating his anxious parents. He seems to learn to produce spells at will."

"Unless the parents can break this cycle, the danger to the child's personality development is far greater than any danger to him from the breath holding spells."

Dr. Brazelton, who has been called "the new Dr. Spock," has written a new book, "Toddlers and Parents" (Delacorte Press), as a follow-up to his successful "Infants and Mothers," which dealt with babies in their first year of life.

In the new volume, which takes the child through the turbulent months between 1 and 2½, the pediatrician makes these observations:

—On falls: While parents should attempt to prevent falls wherever possible, nature has anticipated them by leaving the anterior fontanel (soft spot of the skull) open until 18 months of age to provide a cushion for the brain.

—On negativism: This is the age in which the child says, "No! No! No!" It is nothing more than a marker for beginning decision making on his own. If parents take his negativism too literally, he will be surprised and disappointed.

—On handedness: A child should not be pressed to a decision on which hand to use. He must sort out his own best way of performing in the face of society's pressure to use the right hand. The child may not demonstrate any fixed handedness before age 3.

—On speech: Children usually learn "Mamma" and "Dadda" by the ninth month of life, but some prefer to concentrate on motor skills rather than sensory skills and may not learn to speak until the third year, when the brain's maturity makes it easier to produce speech with trial and error. Delay also may occur when a child's wishes are anticipated and there is no incentive for speech.

Holding Hands Across The Land On July 4, 1976

By ELIZABETH CLELAND

(c) Washington Star-News
Wouldn't it be wonderful if, on the Fourth of July, 1976, we held hands from coast to coast?

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could do something to reassure ourselves and each other and the rest of the world that this is a great country and that we love it very, very much?

Wouldn't it be wonderful?
And why couldn't we do it? There are roads across every inch of the 3,000-odd miles. And there are enough of us.

This delicious scheme came to me while watching a political telethon on television. We were being treated to bits and pieces of patriotic speech and song when the program was interrupted with the shocking news of the shooting in Atlanta of the mother of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Poor Atlanta, I thought, I wish I could hold their hand.

I HAVE VISITED Atlanta only once, but I have a feeling for it. I'm rather soft about American cities, to tell the truth. I'm forever holding up soft-drink bottles and sending greetings to the city named on the bottom. "Hello, all you folks in Akron, Ohio," I say, or "How's it going, Nashville?"

And from there is an easy leap. Let's hold hands from "California to the New York Island." Let's hold hands because we care about each other and because we've been through a lot lately. And I, for one, want to do something special on our 200th anniversary — something more than a picnic or fireworks or watching a televised speech.

I want to put myself on the line.

Is it possible? Anything is possible, is my attitude. We had men playing golf on the moon a couple of years ago. We can do it.

I MULLED THIS idea around for a few days and then threw it out. I didn't throw it very far at first, just to the next room, where friend husband was playing cards. He stared at me for a long minute and then whispered one word — "tremendous."

The next day I threw it a little further. I presented it with a bit of a buildup at a lunch of colleagues. I feared hoots and jeers from this sophisticated, news-hardened group, and instead I got cheers and yes, tears. (These from a particularly delightful co-workers, young and cute and bright as two buttons. She dabbed at her eyes, smearing her eye-liner, and said in her impeccable upper case British accent, "And it's not even my country.")

One more test. A triple-birthday party in my home town of Falls Church, Va., brought together a good-sized crowd of people who care for each other and who care for the country. We all feel beaten up and beaten down at the same time. Hurrah, hurrah, they said, let's do it. Vince, one of the celebrants, started to sing "America I love you and there's a hundred million others like me."

AS IS MY WONT, and a wretched wont it is, I kept on talking about it. At least three people said, "write it and get it in print before the hucksters grab it. I feel that it is very important that this idea remain strictly out of the hands of any one group. Somebody had to sponsor it, I suppose, but I wanted the idea to be put forth as a non-political, non-commercial, non-anything-but-people idea.

But still I talked about it, I made figures. How many miles? How many feet in a mile? How many feet from coast to coast. How many people? I made figures, and I talked and I talked and I figured, and guess what happened?

I sat down at my typewriter on Tuesday, July 23, with a "now or never" determination and the phone rang. It was a neighbor, one of the many who had heard my idea. "Get a copy of the Congressional record for yesterday — Monday — and turn to page E4885."

And there it was. Mrs. Marietta R. Lazzo, of Park Forest, Ill., wrote her Congressman, Rep. George M. O'Brien. She said: "Wouldn't it be wonderful if enough people wanted to, and would, on July 4, 1976, join hands along some of our nation's highways to make one great human, handclasped chain from shore to shore across our country?"

I not only couldn't have said it better myself — I didn't. Mrs. Lazzo had the idea last winter, she said, and she went on in her letter with all the feet and miles and people figures that I had. Clearly, we are two minds with but a single thought... and I bet there are "a hundred million others" like us.

If you are one of them, and would like to see the figures or add to this scheme, write me in care of The Lincoln Star, Women's News, Box 81609, Lincoln, Neb. 68501. I'll tell Marietta, we're holding hands already.

Song Knocks Coed Dorm Arrangement

DEAR ABBY: Your recent exchange of letters concerning coeducational living at college prompts me to think you might be amused by this song which I wrote, published and copyrighted a few months ago.

Your constant reader,
RICHARD L. GREEN,
NEW HAVEN, CONN.
THE OLD FASHIONED COED
(To the tune of "Don't Send My Boy to Harvard, the Dying Mother Said")
One busy Monday morning in the office of the dean
A pretty girl with downcast eyes
The dean was brisk and businesslike: her slacks were neatly pressed;
She asked the girl the reason why she felt herself distressed.
"I'm dropping out," the student said, "although I'd hoped to stay; 'I'm sure that I could never last until Commencement Day."

I know that coed living's great, but I cannot conform;
I'll try to find some backward school that has a women's dorm."

Chorus:
I did not come to college to lose my maiden flower;
I came to work and study hard for every credit hour;

For eighteen years I've walked upon the straight and narrow path:
I do not want a football man to share my room and bath. "I cannot help you," said the dean: "our policy is clear:

In rich, mature relationships we do not interfere;
If normal, heterosexual life is making you so nervous,

I would suggest that you consult our psychiatric service."

"No, thank you," said the girl; "I know that here I don't belong. I'll try to find some backward place where folks say 'right' and 'wrong.'"

The tears were trembling on her lids; she quickly turned away; And as she closes the office door these sad words she did say:

Chorus:
I did not come to college etc.
DEAR RICHARD: Beautiful! And bless your sweet whiffenpoof for sharing.

DEAR ABBY: If an advertisement on TV or radio is repulsive to me, I refuse to buy the product, even if it's the cheapest of several brands.

For example, the other day there were three different brands of toilet tissue on the shelf in a supermarket. One I had never heard of; another I had seen advertised occasionally, but not often; and a third whose TV commercials were so repulsive to me that I actually have changed the channel so I wouldn't have to look at it. I bought the middle brand.

My wife disagreed. She wanted to buy the brand with the repulsive advertising because she thought it was the best quality.

Who is right? Am I to ignore the repulsive advertising because of quality? Letters to the network don't help. I've

FRUSTRATED
DEAR FRUSTRATED: You're complaining to the wrong people. Write to the president of the company whose product you refuse to buy because of the "Repulsive" advertising and tell him why! If enough complaints cross his desk, he will inform his ad agency that he wants some changes made.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the "38-year-old professional woman" who wants to have a child to find her "ultimate fulfillment," I have a few thoughts:

My mother was just such a professional woman. She collected a husband, a daughter and a dog to "enrich" her life. The only one who was not damaged by the "enrichment" was the dog.

Babysitters, housekeepers, boarding schools seemed to be the child's lot.

Abby, I agree with your answer and strongly suggest she acquire a dog and two cats and call it a family. Using other human beings to fulfill oneself is worthwhile only if one can give as well as take.

Student Loan Increase Unlikely, Says Warner

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Higher education institutions "cannot afford the luxury" of "playing King of the Mountain" in competing for student financial aid from the state, Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner said Friday.

Sen. Jerome Warner

"Educational policy is politically determined," Warner declared at the Nebraska Association of Student Financial Aids Administrators meeting in Lincoln.

He said, schools must realize improved financial aid depends on elected officials that are advocates of better education, as well as those who are "lukewarm" on the issue.

Any expanded state aid to students, Warner said, "is going to depend on the success of those programs that are developed and implemented," because winners link directly to the required "public acceptability of whatever we do."

Warner said expansion of direct student loans is "not particularly likely" because "the problem with collection and the default rate has dampened enthusiasm." He didn't criticize the concept, rather, the repayment formulas established.

Work-Study Possible

He also predicted no significant expansion of outright financial state grants to students.

Work-study assistance "has the greatest possibility" for expansion at public institutions, he said, owing to its wider public acceptability.

Warner, explaining, "I do not believe in free tuition," said he supports institutions lowering their tuition rates. Boosting tuition, he said, has the "effect of discouraging far more students than is necessary."

"It's unlikely that direct aid and increased appropriations for operating costs" can both be boosted, he said.

Warner stressed research to analyze what affects student choices in education is "extremely essential," because money is only one of the elements that enter into a decision.

Research Alibi

He cautioned against using research "as an alibi to delay decisions" or to draw "over-simplified conclusions." Data, he said, can only be an additional tool to use in seeking expanded student aid.

He said a common data bank on schools the state "is going to be necessary in the future."

Alternatives affecting immediate decisions regarding student financial aid include expanding "contractual type relations with other states" in selected study areas, or simply cooperation to achieve the same goal, Warner said.

To aid students who attend private institutions, "it would require constitutional change," Warner said, submitting, any such proposal would "have to be narrow" in scope. Further, he said it would be difficult "to have it placed on the ballot by the Legislature, and even more difficult to have it passed by the voters."

Many Compete

Other state services also compete with educational institutions for state funds, Warner reminded the financial aid officers, and he predicted the state portion budgeted for postsecondary schools will "remain fairly constant."

Thus, he said, schools will probably have to choose between direct aid to students with a resulting decrease in appropriations to their institutional budgets, or vice versa.

University Funds Panel Mulls NU's Ranking In Big 8 Schools

The Governor's Commission on University Funding mulled briefly Friday the question, "Where should the University of Nebraska be?" in relation to Big 8 schools.

But commissioners decided to go no further than their charge to determine NU's relative standing in the conference.

Commissioner and State Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell said since NU is the "smallest of the Big 8 schools," the commission should get data from non-Big 8 schools in states with populations similar to Nebraska's.

The commission organized on Sept. 4, and divided into four subcommittees to gather comparative data. Commissioners Friday indicated reports should be ready for Chairman Gus Lieske of Omaha by Nov. 1.

The sub-committees include state level analysis, medical center comparison, agricultural and home economics extension and experiment stations, and university program analysis (including general extension and community services).

Commissioners said some budget comparisons will be difficult among the schools. For example, Dr. Henry Smith, commissioner of Lincoln, said the NU Medical Center in Omaha has a pharmacy school, but the dentistry school is located on the UNL campus; the situation at Colorado University is just the opposite.

Presiding Commissioner Willard Waldo of DeWitt, also a State Board of Education member, brought up the idea of determining where NU should direct its growth.

Should NU, he asked, be among the average of the three highest schools funded in the Big 8, "better than that, or do we need to be that good?"

Waldo said, "I would assume that we're down at the bottom."

Rerouting U.S. 73-75 Opposed

By The Associated Press

A group from Plattsmouth appeared before the State Highway Commission Friday urging them to rebuild U.S. 73-75 rather than move it a mile west.

The group, represented by Richard Tinchler of Plattsmouth, said it wanted the commission to reconsider plans for six miles of the proposed route near Plattsmouth. The state plans to extend Kennedy Freeway in Omaha down to Nebraska City.

The 20 persons at the meeting said moving the route would be detrimental to property owners.

Another group from Plattsmouth, including city councilman Norman Henry, said they wanted the route moved.

Low Bidders Reported For State Roads Work

By The Associated Press

Apparent low bidders on more than $7.5 million in highway construction and improvement projects were announced Friday, by Tom Doyle, state engineer.

Biggest single project was $1.8 million for grading, culvert and bridge work on 8.3 miles of U.S. 73, east and west of Verdon in Richardson County.

The $7.5 million brought the 1974 calendar year total to $56.7 million.

Low bids were $2.3 million lower than advance estimates of costs.

Other major projects included 2.6 miles of Nebraska 64 west from Valley, 7.6 miles of Nebraska 32 between Madison and West Point, 9.1 miles of U.S. 385 near Alliance, 7 miles of Nebraska 8 east from Barneston, 9.4 miles of a county road running west from Cresco and 6.8 miles of a county road running southeast from Stockville.

Doyle said he was not willing to accept the legislative fiscal analyst's report which said the Department of Roads' maintenance crews were 59% inefficient. Doyle said "it was not a competent survey."

Stevenson, 80, recently announced his retirement and testified during the trial by deposition because of his health.

Taylor was Mrs. Kramer's physician before her daughter's birth on Aug. 16, 1967, and immediately afterward. Stevenson assumed charge of the child the day after the birth.

The suit charged that the doctors and hospital staff were negligent in their administration of oxygen and the child developed retrolental fibroplasia, commonly known as "RLF," causing blindness.

Boys Town Staff Shifts Continue

Omaha (AP) — The staff shakeup continued at Boys Town Thursday with two more major changes.

Dr. William Hawver has been named deputy director of educational programs, and the Rev. James V. Brown has become acting deputy director of residential care.

Boys Town's director, the Rev. Robert P. Hepp, said the changes are results of a staff realignment following the resignation of Herbert R. Sigurdson, deputy director for child care services.

Hawver, a native of Kansas City, Kan., was on the administrative staff of the Bellevue public schools six years before he joined the Boys Town staff recently as director of education.

Fr. Brown, a native of Snyder, has been director of St. Augustine Retreat Center in Kansas City, Kan., 3 1/2 years.

Dow Average Hits 12-Year Closing Low

New York (AP) — The stock market sank sharply Friday, capping off a week-long slide with a new 12-year closing low in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The widely watched average of 30 blue chips fell 16.03 to 621.95, its lowest finish since Nov. 9, 1962.

In the session's final hour the Dow slipped past its previous closing low this year of 627.19, recorded Sept. 13, with no visible hesitation.

Losers predominated over gainers 970 to 368 among the 1,745 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume increased to 12.23 million shares from only 9.06 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks, down .77 at 34.25, held just above its closing low of two weeks before.

With its final dive near Friday's close, the Dow completed the process of erasing all the gains it piled up in the previous week amid rising hopes for relief from the pressures of tight and expensive money.

Those hopes were still in evidence at Friday's opening, when the market set out on an upward course, pushing the Dow up a little more than three points in the first half-hour. But when the rally started quickly faded, a steady decline set in that lasted until the closing bell.

Brokers said disillusionment over the performance of the market itself had been a major factor in the declines this past week.

The collapse of a rally Wednesday after a major New York bank cut its prime lending rate was "a big psychological let-down" for the market, in the words of Robert Stovall at Reynolds Securities.

"The dropping of the prime rate turned into another nonevent for the market, just as the end of the Arab oil embargo and the resignation of President Nixon did."

"Nothing seems to help the market at the moment."

One development that certainly did not help it Friday was the decision by New York's First National City Bank not to go along with the prime rate cut posted by some of its competitors earlier in the week.

Citibank announced as trading began that it would hold the key short term interest rate unchanged at 12% for the coming week.

Citicorp, the bank's parent holding company, was the day's most-active issue, down 1 1/2 at 24 1/2. A 228,900-share block of the issue changed hands at that price. Sharply lower big-name issues dominated the active list, with Dow Chemical off 3 1/2 at 53 1/2; Eastman Kodak, off 3/4 at 66; America Home Products, down 2 1/2 at 28 1/2; and Merck & Co., 2 1/4 lower at 51.

Avco was off 1/2 at 34. Directors omitted the quarterly dividend on the company's $3.20 convertible preferred shares, which fell 7 1/2 to 14 1/2.

Chase Manhattan Mortgage & Realty Trust skidded 1 1/2 to 5 1/2. The real estate investment trust reported sharply lower quarterly earnings and put off consideration of its dividend until next year. On the American Stock Exchange, the most-active issue was Syntex, down 1 1/2 at 31 1/2. The Amex market value index was off .79 at 64.13.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market fell .75 to 57.12.

Chile's AP Devalued Again

Santiago, Chile (AP) — Chile has devalued its national currency, the escudo, for the third time this month and the 19th time this year.

The central bank announced the escudo used on the broker's market for exports and imports has been devalued from 1,060 escudos per U.S. dollar to 1,110 escudos.

The escudo used for tourist money exchange was devalued from 1,110 escudos to 1,180 escudos per U.S. dollar.

Lancaster Co. Hurricane Aid Reaches $1,044

Local contributions to the American Red Cross relief efforts for hurricane-ravaged Honduras reached $1,044 Friday.

The Lancaster County Red Cross will continue to accept monetary donations for the post-hurricane clean-up. Checks should be made out to the Central American Hurricane Relief Fund.

Nebraskans Differ At Summit

By The Associated Press
Three Nebraskans attending the White House Conference on Inflation Friday and Saturday have different approaches to the problem.

Don Magdanz of Omaha, executive secretary of the National Livestock Feeder Association, said he thinks federal deficit spending is the primary cause of inflation.

Lincoln attorney Donald Leonard said there is "no bolt of lightning that is going to solve the problem overnight."

Mrs. Haven Smith, 3rd District Republican congressional candidate, said the problems of agriculture seem to weigh most heavily on the economy.

Cattle Producer Blasts Governor

Wahoo (AP) — A longtime Republican cattle producer has sent a letter to Gov. J. James Exon accusing the governor of ignorance of the cattle situation.

R. C. Johnson, a Republican delegate to several national conventions and a cattle producer for 55 years, said "You seem to be ignorant of the situation that cattlemen are in two categories — the cattle producer and the cattle feeder."

Middle West are produced in western Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana. Last year many of these cattle producers contracted their calves at 80 cents and yearlings at 50 cents per pound, double of previous years.

Magdanz said it's very difficult to predict how or if inflation could be solved and said things will get worse before they improve.

A copy of the letter, addressed to Exon and signed by Johnson, was made available to reporters.

Johnson's letter said "The cattle producer in Nebraska never had it so good. Most cattle in the Leonard agrees with Magdanz that there are no magic solutions to economic stagnation.

Magdanz had reservations about the productiveness of the Ford summit, saying he thought the size and number of opinions would not produce as workable a solution as a small conference.

Judge Can't Say When He'll Rule On School Bill

Lancaster District Judge Dale Fahrbruch said Friday that he cannot say when he will be able to rule on a suit challenging placement of the state aid to education bill on the November ballot.

"Why don't you ask President Ford for relief for those who waged one hundred million dollars on the ponies in Nebraska in 1974? I'm sure some of them would welcome some relief."

Governor J. James Exon and a group of Nebraskans will have a White House appointment, but are unlikely to meet President Ford, according to Don Shasteen, administrative assistant to Sen. Carl Curtis.

During a telephone interview from Washington, Shasteen said, "An appointment has been made by the White House for the governor and his party to meet with Norman Ross, assistant director of the Domestic Council at 4 p.m. Monday afternoon, but I want to make it quite clear that this is not a meeting with the President."

Fahrbruch received answer briefs in the case Friday. The suit was filed by the Nebraska State School Board Association.

"I am well aware why you have sent this and other messages to the President of the United States — an election is soon coming."

The party accompanying Exon to Washington includes M. J. Hankins of Stanton, Tom Baxter of Grand Island, Perry Meyer of GOING ONE BETTER... Graff poses beside 1964 Rolls Royce.

Clothier Succumbs To Splurge Urge

Seward — Everybody likes to splurge a little on vacations. Most Americans visiting abroad cart home anything from Swiss clocks to French perfumes to Japanese cameras.

"interesting" and "fun" car. "It's the only used car I ever bought," he added jokingly.

Seward clothier Jack Graff went one better during a trip to London about a year and a half ago. He ordered a Rolls Royce.

Three days before they had planned to leave for home, Graff gave in to his new-found love and contacted Frank Dale and Stepsons, Ltd., in the Sloan's Square District of London. The firm deals solely in the elegant Silver Cloud IIIs, the last of the Rolls Royce luxury line.

It's also the first and only Rolls Royce ever registered in Seward County, according to Edward Svoboda, Seward County treasurer.

Nearly every year he and his wife close shop during February and March and set out on a buying spree. They select jackets in authentic Scottish plaids, sweaters hand-made in the Erin Islands off the coast of Ireland and smartly tailored-in-England wool suits.

Only about 2,000 Silver Cloud IIIs were built in 1964 and they are reportedly in big demand.

On the highway, Graff figures he averages about 15 miles to the gallon using ethyl gasoline.

"I had no idea of buying a Rolls when we went over," Graff related. "But our hotel was just across the street from an agency

After a customer leaves a down-payment, the firm searches for the right car. Unlike most used car dealers, they have nothing in stock.

"The factory did notify me," he said, "that if I be very careful with the pedal throttle (gas pedal) and not exceed 95 miles per hour, I could possibly get by with regular."

Put simply, it was a case of love at first sight.

Came From Estate

Rod McKenzie, president of McKenzie Pontiac of Omaha and the only authorized Rolls Royce dealer in this area, said a Rolls is made to run 400,000 miles and more.

"There was a very narrow street near our hotel," Mrs. Graff began to explain. "Everytime a Rolls-Royce would come down the street, Jack would stoop down Graff's auto came from the estate of John Tillotson, a famous London newspaperman-businessman. With slightly over 60,000 miles, the 1964 Silver Cloud III was in tip-top condition last March when it arrived in Seward.

McKenzie said most persons who buy a Rolls do so because of its "engineering qualities."

Columbus Man Invents Guideway; Patent Given

By The New York Times

The inventor is Rodney S. Goering of Columbus, Neb., an aerospace engineer formerly with the Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.

The guideway described in patent 3,837,285 is a tube with open sides. These permit the air to escape, minimizing the piston effect of closed tubular guideways and providing the passengers with a view.

It is understood that the space agency has no plans to build such tubes or vehicles but has conducted the research to aid any other agencies interested in ground transportation. Private companies can obtain licenses under the patent.

Ralston — Fifth-ranked Lincoln East overcame four first-quarter turnovers, all on fumbles, to shutout winless Ralston here Friday night, 26-0.

The ragged first period produced a total of seven fumbles and 80 yards in penalties while neither team was able to score. Both squads, however, had touchdowns nullified in the opening stanza.

Oakland Clinches Title

By The Associated Press

The Oakland A's clinched the American League West title Friday night while the Baltimore Orioles increased its first-place lead in the AL East by beating the Milwaukee Brewers 1-0 in 17 innings.

Rain washed out the New York at Cleveland game, dropping the Yankees one game behind Baltimore in the AL East.

Meantime, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals each scored victories to remain tied for first place in the National League East. Pittsburgh nipped the New York Mets 2-1 and St. Louis crushed the Chicago Cubs 10-4.

Oakland captured its fourth straight division crown when the Kansas City Royals downed Texas 5-4, mathematically eliminating the runnerup Rangers.

The A's got word of the Texas loss while hosting the Chicago White Sox.

Boston beat Detroit 9-3 and Minnesota was at California in other AL night games.

In other National League games, Cincinnati topped San Francisco 4-3 and Montreal beat Philadelphia 2-0.

Los Angeles, seeking to clinch the NL West title, was at San Diego. Atlanta and Houston were idle.

George Brett's single drove Amos Otis home with the winning run in Kansas City's success over Texas.

Bobby Grich scored with the only run as the Orioles outlasted Milwaukee. Bob Oliver's hit a slow roller with the bases loaded to score Grich. It was scored a fielder's choice when third baseman Don Money was unable to make a play at home.

Boston rapped Woodie Fryman for four runs in the first inning and coasted to victory over the Tigers in a rain-delayed game.

Pitcher Bob Gibson knocked in four runs—three on a bases-loaded double—and Joe Torre belted a two-run homer in the Cardinals triumph at Chicago. Mike Tyson also homered for the Cards.

Jerry Reuss' seven-hitter and an RBI-double by Willie Stargell and Bob Robertson's sacrifice fly gave the Pirates their victory over the Mets. Both runs came in the sixth inning off Jon Matlack.

Nebraska's freshman football team opened its season Friday afternoon at Memorial Stadium by beating the Kansas State junior varsity, 24-10, in a game filled with errors.

The Husker yearlings never trailed in dropping the Wildkittens to 1-1 by scoring in every quarter with several players coming up with outstanding efforts for NU.

The more notable Huskers were Columbus Lakeview monster Jim Pillen, Boys Town middle guard Bill Bryant, quarterback Tom Sorley of Big Springs, Tex. and Byron Stewart of Oxon Hill, Md.

Pillen blocked a punt that teammate Pat Lehigh, former Lincoln East standout, ran in 18 yards for the first touchdown and in the last quarter intercepted a pass that probably was the turning point in the game.

After K-State's JV scored its only touchdown with 12:02 remaining in the fourth quarter, Nebraska fumbled on the next series with the Wildkittens recovering on the Husker's 13-yard line.

KSU quarterback Jeff Beeson then tried to throw a touchdown pass, with NU leading 17-10.

However, Pillen stepped in front of the K-State receiver grabbed the interception and ran out to his 39.

Sorley then led his teammates to their last touchdown that put the game out of reach.

"The action was coming my way, so I contained the tight end and drifted back to make the interception," Pillen said.

"Stopping Kansas State on that series was probably the key to the game for us."

Part of the reason the Huskers intercepted five Beeson passes was the pass rush led by Bryant, who was NU's leading tackler.

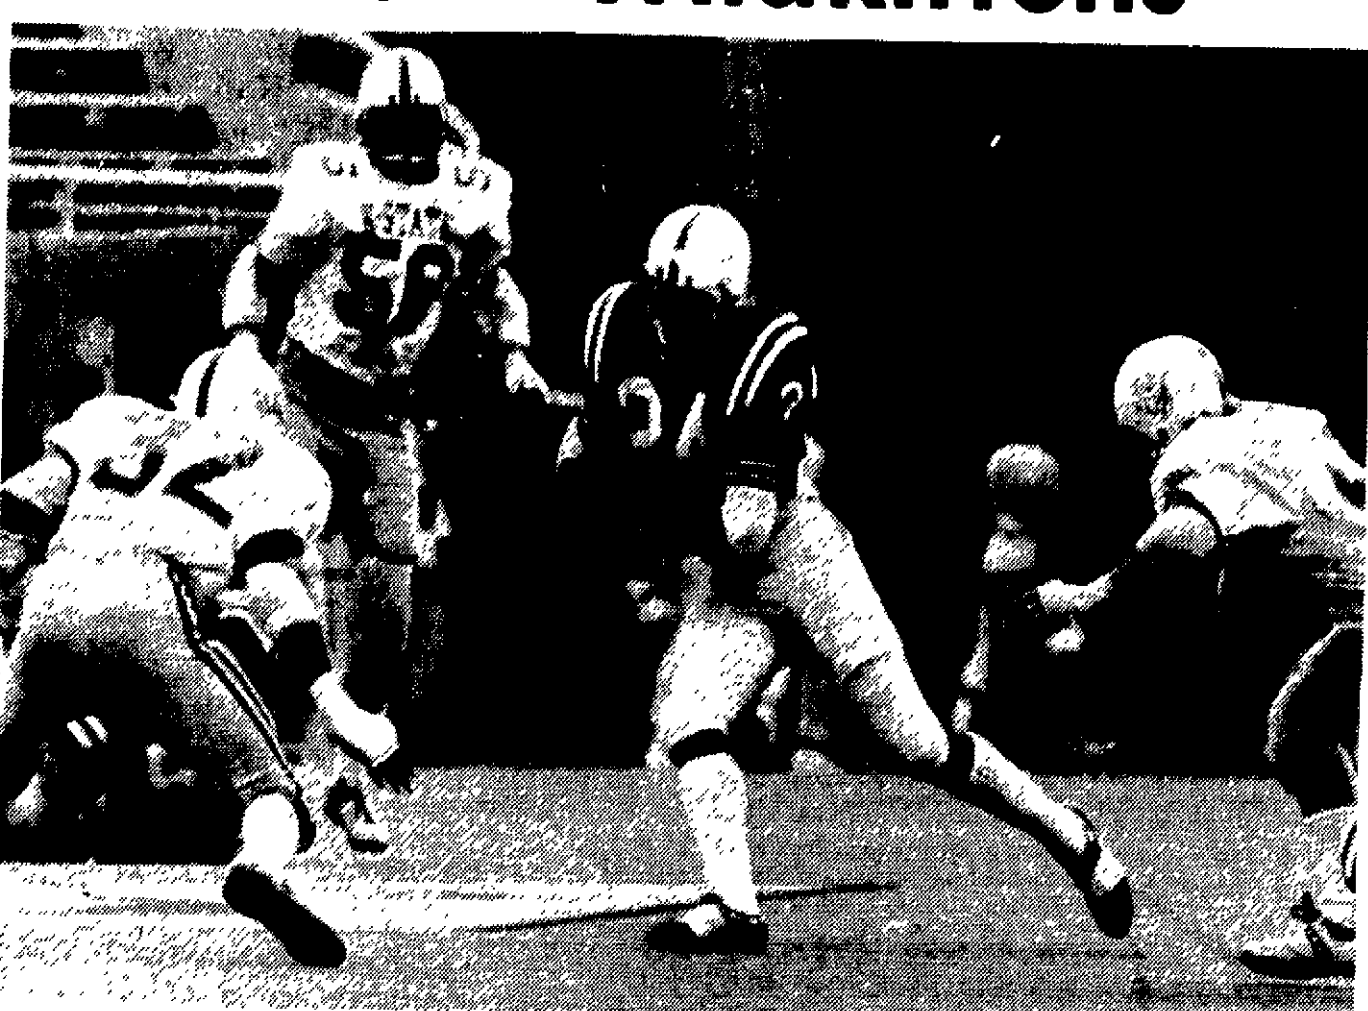

"Kansas State tried to run around the middle, hoping to catch us slanting the wrong way and we wouldn't be able to get back in time," Bryant said.

"But, about the only trouble we had with stopping the run was the cutting of Cox (KSU's leading rusher Kerwin Cox, who finished with 94 yards on 18 carries)."

With Cox being the only effective Wildkitten ball carrier Beeson tried 37 passes and completed 14 for 201 yards.

On offense, the Huskers were mainly hurt by fumbling six times and losing three, while rushing for 302 yards with Stewart leading the way with 105 in 16 carries.

"We had our best luck outside with counter sweeps and traps," Sorley said.

Husker I-Back Byron Stewart finds a small hole in the Kansas State line and quickly glides through for a sizeable gain in the JV game.

"Kansas State was taking the inside fake by our backs and the line was blocking well," he continued. "We worked together as a team and that's what it takes."

Lexington's Ted Harvey, Lincoln Northeast's Glenn Sullivan, McCook's Dennis Rose and Lincoln East's Dennis Payne all intercepted passes for NU with Payne also recovering a fumble.

Pius X Tips Minden, 18-13

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Minden — Kent Krause grabbed his second interception of the evening with one minute to go to help Lincoln Pius X hold an 18-13 advantage over Minden here Friday night.

Pius X held an 18-0 halftime lead over the Minden Whippets and looked as if they might coast to an easy victory.

But a strong second half effort by Minden challenged the 'Bolts until the final minute of the game when Krause intercepted a Schnoor pass.

Mitch Ohnoutka tallied first for the 'Bolts on a two yard run, after Pius X recovered a blocked punt on the Minden 30 yard line.

Then, just three minutes later, Minden quarterback Schnoor fumbled and defensive tackle Matt Fouts picked up the ball and ran 27 yards to make the score 12-0 in favor of the Lincoln team.

The 'Bolts' final score came on an 8 yard pass from Ohnoutka to Krause at the end of the first half.

Minden roared to life in the second half as its defense halted Pius X twice, forcing them to punt for the first time in the game.

Minden drove from its own 30 yard line to the Pius X 14 on runs by Mark Etzelmeier, Brian Bonz and Don Bergston.

But Mike Peters intercepted a pass at the 20, stalling the Whippets deep in enemy territory.

Pius X could get nothing going and was once again forced to punt.

Minden defensive tackle Ron Nelson blasted through the 'Bolts' line and blocked the punt, allowing Paul Nelson to recover the loose ball in the end zone for the Whippets' initial score.

Following the touchdown, Minden recovered an onside kickoff on the Pius X 47, and marched to the 6 yard line in 6 plays where Bergston scampered in to make the score 18-13 with 5:07 left in the game.

Pius X stalled again, bringing in punter Pat Fuller, who booted the ball to the Minden 5 yard line, where 'Bolts Tom Doggett dropped the receiver Etzelmeier.

Minden then started moving, but on the third play from scrimmage, Krause picked off another pass and Pius X ran out the clock for the win.

"We couldn't seem to get decent field position in the second half, and couldn't get our offense moving," said Pius X Coach Vince Aldrich.

"Our reverse play to Kent Krause seemed to work best for us," Aldrich continued. "We had just put that play in this week."

"We had a lot of trouble with the wind and didn't feel that we should gamble and throw," said Aldrich, whose team only threw once in the second half.

Lincoln High's Gary Tarrence is a blur of action as the speedster prepares for a handoff from quarterback Ralph Kuwamoto (12).

Kuhn, Cass Boost LNE Triumph

By BOB MOYER

Northeast quarterback Bruce Kuhn scored twice and teammate Dan Cass rushed for 137 yards as the Rockets defeated Lincoln High 13-0 before 6,695 fans at Seacrest Field Friday night.

The No. 4-ranked Rockets took control, the first intra-city contest this season, after the intermission after a scoreless first half.

With Cass getting 39 yards, NE unleashed a devastating ball control game in the second half that held Lincoln High to only 13 offensive plays in the third and fourth quarters.

The Rockets finally broke the scoring ice on their second possession of the third quarter, marching 57 yards on 10 plays, capped by Kuhn's ½-yard plunge.

Cass opened the series with a nifty 13-yard scamper and then two plays later Kuhn hit Doug Neill for 15 more yards to move the ball to the Links' 27-yard line.

Another strong run by Cass, this time for 14 yards, brought up a first-and-goal situation from the five. The Links held for the first two plays, but on third down Cass barreled between his center and left guard, and seemed to score, but the officials marked the ball on the ½-yard line. Kuhn then sneaked the ball in for the touchdown on the ensuing fourth-down play.

The Rocket defense, which held Lincoln High to only 61 yards on the ground and one yard via the passing lanes throughout the game, stopped the Links on the next series as the quarter ended.

Starting from its own 31-yard line as the fourth quarter began, Northeast marched 69 yards on 11 plays to clinch the victory, again with Kuhn scoring from five yards out.

The Rockets threatened one more time. Taking over the ball late in the fourth quarter, Northeast moved from its own 37 to the Links' 18 before the clock ran out.

"We just blew them off in the second half," said a jubilant Bob Els, Northeast head coach.

"We felt we could run against them after the first half," Els said. "But we were missing the one or two crucial blocks in the first half that we needed to spring our backs free. In the second half we got them."

Els also had high praise for Cass, who netted his 137 yards on 17 rushes for an average of eight yards per carry.

"We think we've got the best back in the state in Cass," Els said.

Earlier in the week Lincoln High head coach Jerry Ball said he thought the line play would be the decisive factor. His prediction proved to be right, but unfortunately for the Links, it was the Rocket line which dominated.

"I've got to praise both our offensive and defensive lines," said Els. "They played real well. Our linemen also turned in their best game of the year."

Dan Cass
17 for 137

An obviously disappointed Ball, succinctly summed up his team's woes. "They had 13 points and we didn't have any," he said.

"I was disappointed in our performance," he added. "I thought we did well but we were just inches away from where we should have been all night."

Els said he felt his team's quickness was a deciding factor in the contest, but Ball disagreed. "There no quicker than any other team we've played this year," said Ball. "In fact ... well, let's just leave it at that."

Els said the win was especially crucial for his Rockets, now 4-0, because "neither team had played anybody really good yet. We thought we had a good team but you never really know until you play somebody of Lincoln High's caliber."

"They have a tremendous ball club," Els added. "They're going to beat a lot of people this year."

Admetus Ready For Major Test

Laurel, Md. (AP) — The owners of Admetus have accepted an invitation to enter the 4-year-old gelding in the Washington, D.C. International, President John D. Schapiro of Laurel Race Course announced Friday.

Admetus, a four-time stakes winner this year, and defending champion Dahlia will represent France in the 1½-mile grass race on Nov. 9. Igloo of Australia also is on the early entry list.

Schapiro is considering a list of the best American grass horses in training, while appraising the performances of other foreign horses before extending invitations.

Admetus is owned by Sir Michael Sobell and Sir Arnold Wenstock, and trained by Jack Cunningham Jr.

WBA Feuding With Promoters

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Had the World Boxing Association guaranteed George Forman and Muhammad Ali $5 million each for their heavyweight championship fight in Zaire, then its decision not to sanction the Oct. 29 fight would have had some meaning. As it is, nobody, least of all the fighters, cares.

WBA president Walter Brennan knows this and that is why he stressed Friday. "We have nothing against the two fighters. They're the right people to contest a heavyweight championship—ship—the champion against the No. 1 contender.

"Our dispute is with the promoters. They have not submitted the fight contracts for approval, nor have they replied to any correspondence.

"They apparently don't want our sanction and they don't have it."

But Brennan agreed that the fight is a championship bout.

"We all know that every time the heavyweight champion enters the ring his title is on the line," said Brennan.

Gresham — Even in an energy crisis, the football scoreboard here could stay on the rest of the week here and no one would complain.

When the gun went off here Friday night, ending Gresham's dramatic 20-18 Crossroads interference win over defending state eight-man champion Monte, someone forgot to turn the scoreboard off.

That's because the post-game trophy celebration carried most of the town's followers from the

Annual Funding Is Suggested For Crime Units

Crime Commissioner Don Nelson Friday again suggested that regional crime commissions in the state should be allocated a certain amount of funds each year.

The commissions now review projects on an individual basis.

Nelson argued that this leaves regional commissions in the position of never knowing what their resources are.

A staff report on the matter, however, said that problems arise in deciding under what kind of formula allocations should be made.

On the basis of crime rate the report said that Lincoln and Omaha would get 70% of the money whether they need it or not. On the basis of population some regions would be left paupers, according to the report.

In action on grant applications the commission approved granting the Lincoln Police Department $77,000 for continuing the Major Crimes Unit. The unit will be entering its second year.

Airline Profit Higher

Wellington (AP) — New Zealand's international airline, Air New Zealand, made a record profit of $5.28 million in the fiscal year to last March, compared with $3.31 million in the previous year, Chairman Geoffrey Roberts said.

NPPD Studies Plan For Byproduct Fertilizer

Columbus (AP) — The Nebraska Public Power District is studying a plan which could produce fertilizer as a byproduct of its antipollution systems.

Dr. Eric Sloth, NPPD environmental affairs manager, said the fertilizer production system could possibly be installed in a coal fired plant which may be built in 1979 and 1980.

Saturday, Sept. 28, 1974 The Lincoln Star 15

cost as little as $40 a ton if the process proves feasible. The fertilizer would be a byproduct of ammonia which is mixed with the coal smoke to "scrub" out sulfur oxides, NPPD said.

BETTER START EARLY AND STOP AT THE BARBER SHOP! SHE'LL THINK YOU SENT ONE OF YOUR LONG-HAIRED STUDENTS!

WITH TWO WOMEN IN THE HOUSE TO NAG YOU, MAYBE WE CAN INSTILL SOME PRIDE IN YOU ONCE AGAIN!

YOU DEAR LADIES BETTER LIMIT YOUR EFFORTS TO REMODELING DRESSES... INSTEAD OF A HUSBAND WHO'S TRYING TO APPROACH MIDDLE-AGE WITH RESIGNATION!

SEE YOU IN AN HOUR!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

DONALD DUCK by Walt Disney

IT'S SWELL OF YOU TO SHOW US...
YOUR MONEY BIN... UNCA SCROOGE!
ANY QUESTIONS?
THE FIRST DOLLAR I EVER EARNED. I WAS ABOUT YOUR AGE.
WHAT'S THAT ONE?
WHAT'S THE DATE ON IT, UNCA SCROOGE?
COME ALONG NOW! I HAVEN'T TIME FOR SILLY QUESTIONS!

RIP KIRBY by John Prentice & Fred Dickenson

ARRIVAL AT HEADQUARTERS IS RECTIC.
HOLD IT, MR. KIRBY!
HOW'D YOU SNEAK IT OUT OF THE MUSEUM?
ALL A MIS-UNDERSTANDING, GENTLEMEN. THERE WILL BE A STATEMENT LATER...
WHAT D'YA THINK OF THE PICTURE, McCAFFERTY?
IT AIN'T DECENT. SHE SHOULD OUGHT TO BE PLAYING A BASS DRUM!

Wishing Well

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
